STARTS FINAL LAP OF PAVING CUT-OFF ON 42

State Highway Department Asks Bids on Completing 3.59 Miles of Road.

UNDER WAY FOR 4 YEARS

New Highway to Be 30 Feet Wide, Cost Estimated at $281,000.

Delayed four years, completion of the Windsor cut-off paving on route 42 between Mansfield and Ashland was virtually assured today when the state highway department called for bids on the paving of 3.59 miles of road in Richland and Ashland counties.

Started in 1934 as a CWA project, paving of the section of highway has been delayed a number of times by lack of funds and difficulties in obtaining right-of-ways for the highway.

Federal Funds Allotted.

With federal funds already allotted and only minor obstacles in the way of completion of the project, the Mansfield and Ashland Chambers of Commerce joined recently in a drive to speed up the paving. Last week officers of the two groups were assured by Congressman William A. Ashbrook that there would be prompt action in getting the project under way again.

Sheduled for completion within 200 working days, the project is estimated to cost $281,357. The federal government will contribute $153,000 of that amount and the state highway department the remainder.

Calls for Brick.

Specifications call for a 30-foot paving with brick on a 46-foot roadway over a total length of 18,959 feet. Men employed on the project must be taken, so far as possible, from the unemployment list of the Mansfield office of the U. S. employment service.

Sealed bids on the paving contract will be opened July 2, and it is expected that work will be launched some time next month.

When completed, the project, which spans the Richland-Ashland county line, will cut off approximately one and a half miles of the distance between Mansfield and Ashland and will eliminate several dangerous curves in the Windsor area.

CZECHS ACCEPT NAZI PROPOSAL

Government Agrees to Study Memorandum Providing for Sudeten Autonomy.

(By International News Service)

PRAGUE—In a move promising early solution of the danger-laden Czechoslovakian minorities problem, the government of President Edouard Benes today accepted as a "basis for discussion" a memorandum submitted by Konrad Henlein, Sudeten leader.

Exact contents of the memorandum were not made known but it was assumed it provides autonomy for the 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia, spearhead of all Henlein's demands in the past.

As a result of the acceptance, negotiations for a Sudeten minority statute were expected to be resumed this afternoon but there were some indications they may not begin for several days.

The Henlein memorandum is now in the hands of government judicial experts, charged with the task of determining whether constitutional prerogatives will permit enactment of the nationality statutes involved.

News of the acceptance caused wild rejoicing among the Sudetens, who from the beginning have insisted they desire only a purely legal and constitutional solution of their difficulties.

Bathing Beauties Have to Work

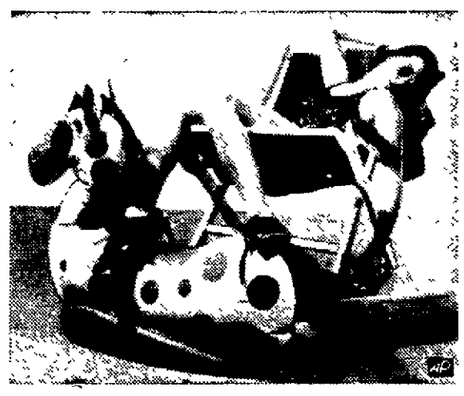

PITY the poor bathing beauty. Before she can play on the beach she has to get there. And getting there nowadays is a lot of work because she has to lug a lot of equipment. Also, she has to dress smartly. Our sample beauty chose an open crown hat, linen jacket and shorts. Come along with her:

1—Off to the water, with a horse, a beach mat, a beach skirt and a beach bag.

2—She's ridden the horse in the water. Now she plays with Fido. Idea is to toss balls into his mouth.

3—Her suit is made of printed elastic material. She must have made a second trip to get that chair.

Pack Train Brings Back Bodies of Plane Victims

Remains of 2 Mansfielders and 7 Others Taken From Mountain Side and Turned Over to Families.

The bodies of the two Mansfielders and seven others who were killed in the wreck of a TWA airliner March 1 were brought down the steep sides of Buena Vista mountain in California early this morning and were released to their families after a formal inquest, dispatches to The News-Journal said today.

The cortege of mountaineers, rangers and newspaper men came into the little hamlet of Wawona, Cal., at the head of a mule pack train, each animal carrying a canvas covered package which contained the remains of a victim of the tragedy.

Crashed In Storm.

Two of them were the bodies of J Tracy Dirlam, 22, and his sister, Mary Lou Dirlam, 19, who were passengers on the luxury liner when it crashed in a blinding snow storm against the rugged peak of Buena Vista, a few hours after leaving the San Francisco airport. The Dirlams were flying to the bedside of their father, Jay N. Dirlam, whose death followed five days later. He was never told of the air tragedy which took the lives of his children.

After a three-month search, the most intensive in California history, the wreckage of the plane was discovered late Sunday by H. O. Collier, former CCC camper who had a "hunch" that the plane would be found near the top of the rugged peak, and who devoted his vacation to finding it.

The pack train arrived in Wawona this morning after plodding through the night for 20 miles over treacherous snow country. Coroner R. S. Jay of Madera county swore in a jury of nine men and held an inquest that lasted only five minutes. The only witness was young Collier. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

NO REPRISALS

Britain Won't Retaliate on Bombings, Chamberlain Says.

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that Britain planned no retaliatory action because of the bombings of British shipping in the Mediterranean but was trying to work out a system of safety ones to end the attacks.

Chamberlain said two proposals had been made which "might go some way toward cessation of these attacks."

The first provides for the establishment of safety zones in certain harbors, which "although it presents considerable difficulties is being actively investigated," the prime minister said.

The second was proposed by the Spanish insurgents, saying a port should be selected outside of military operations for use of British ships.

ACT TODAY ON WAGE-HOUR LAW

House, Senate Urged to O. K. Compromise So Congress Can Quit Tomorrow.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — In an eleventh hour change of plans, the administration today requested the senate banking committee to draft a bill giving unlimited loans to railroads to tide the carriers over till congress meets again. The committee voted to draft the bill immediately.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Administration leaders asked the senate and house to give prompt approval today to compromises on the wage-hour and relief bills, last major legislation before the 75th congress.

If no hitch develops on those measures, they said, a host of less important bills can be cleaned up in time for adjournment about midnight tomorrow.

Members already were making train reservations and packing their office records into government-provided chests so that they would lose no time in getting home to campaign for re-election.

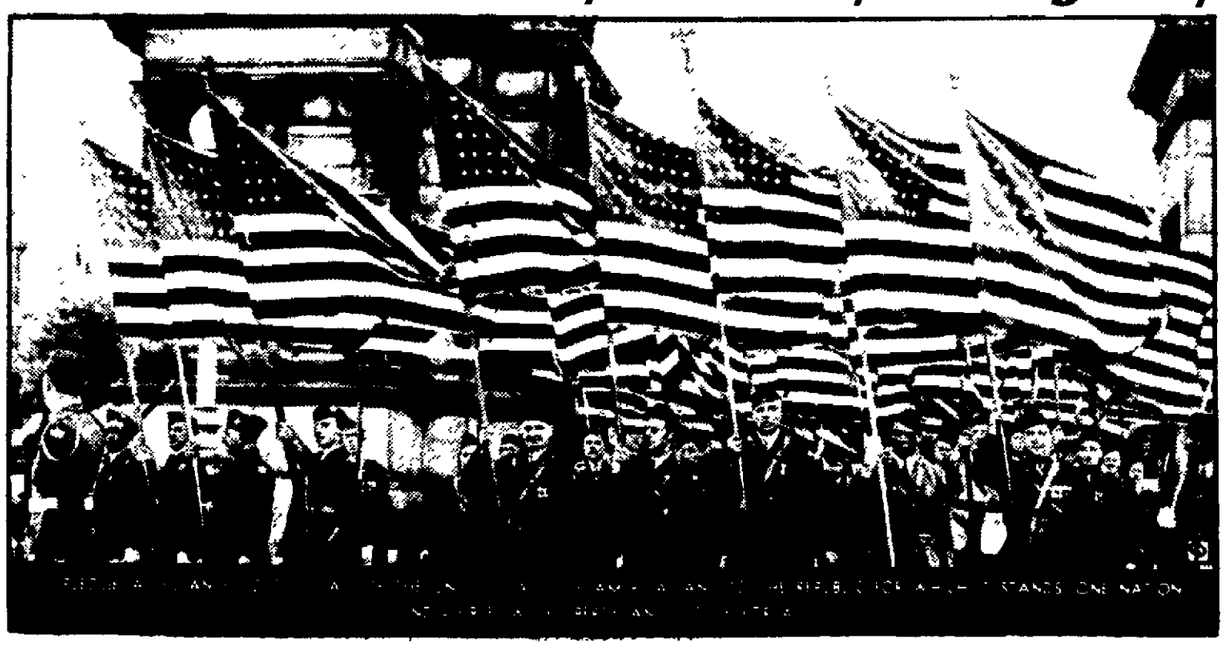

The program arranged by the president's lieutenants called for the house to act shortly after noon on the wage-hour compromise.

Leaders expected it to go through without any trouble even though it makes possible different wage standards for the north and south — a provision which the house originally spurned.

Rep. Wadsworth, (R-NY) chairman of the Republican policy committee, predicted even fewer opposition votes would be cast

Raging Yellow River Buries Nipponese Army Under 30 Feet of Water, Halts Japanese Drive in Chengchow Area; Many Civilians Perish.

BULLETIN

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Japanese military authorities said tonight they believed 150,000 Chinese civilians had been drowned by flood waters of the Yellow river, now spreading over a wide area in northern Honan province.

SHANGHAI—Chinese military dispatches asserted today that 5,000 Japanese troops had been drowned in Yellow river flood waters, that 7,000 more were trapped and that gigantic quantities of war munitions were inundated.

According to these dispatches, at least 5,000 Japanese were overwhelmed when the Paishah sector along the central front was buried under 30 feet of water.

It was asserted that 7,000 more were isolated at Kaifeng, provincial capital of Honan, and that their fate was unknown.

Kaifeng, the dispatches said, was under 20 feet of water and 250 field guns, 80 tanks and 100 armored cars were submerged.

No mention was made of the fate of civilians. The city, on the east-west Lungh-hai railroad, had a population of 200,000.

Dispatches from Chinese portions of the central front asserted that the floods had completely stopped the Japanese drive in the Cheng-Chow sector at the junction point of the Lungh-hai and the North-South Peiping-Hankow railroad.

Japanese had nothing to say regarding the flood. They did not explain the silence of their army which was at the gates of Cheng-Chow four days ago.

Waters Rising.

According to the Chinese, the floods were becoming steadily worse. They reported also that there were less serious floods along the Wei and Kwangtsi rivers in northern Honan province.

From Peiping, also, came additional reports regarding floods along the grand canal between Tientsin and Suchow. So serious was the situation becoming, it was said, due to additional breaks in dykes and the steadily rising level of the canal that magistrates had ordered the poverty-stricken farmers in the area to buy sand bags and to cut trees in an effort to close dyke breaches.

There seemed some reason to believe that the Japanese, switching their strategic plans, might make their main drive for Hankow, emergency Chinese capital, along the Yangtze river where they now had reached Nanking.

Engineers and relief workers familiar with the destruction that can be wrought by "China's sorrow," said the present upsurge was only preliminary to the heavy flow that normally is not at its height until mid-July.

Deliberate destruction of the dikes, which in many places confine the river to a course above the level of the surrounding country, by Japanese artillery fire and airplane bombing, and by the Chinese themselves to impede the invader, was said by these experts to be largely responsible for the present overflow. There have been heavy rains, too.

The old river bed entered the

CITY CHANGES RELIEF PLANS

Seeks Amendment of Sinking Fund Law; Given $13,250 From 'Stop-Gap' Funds.

While the state legislature convened at Columbus today to try to work out a permanent relief financing program, two developments appeared locally. They were:

1. The city virtually gave up its attempt to obtain court approval for a transfer of $50,000 from the sinking fund, where it claims to have a balance in excess of that amount, to the relief fund, and instead will seek to have the state law which makes such a transfer apparently illegal, amended.

2. The county was allocated $13,350 from the state "stop-gap" appropriation for emergency relief work.

The city's decision not to press for approval of the transfer petition in its present form followed a conference with the Chamber of

Soap Box Racers To Appear In New Designs This Year

Bent on fashioning the racer that will walk away with the big prizes and honors, Mansfield and Richland county builders of Soap Box Derby cars have shifted into full gear in their construction of entries for The News-Journal race to be held late in July.

After a year of building racers and seeing other boys build cars, the 1938 Derby drivers promise to turn out some fast home-made machines.

There will be new designs, new paint combinations and every effort will be made by the builders to get as much speed as possible out of the cars.

It's speed that counts, of course, and the boys are constructing their cars as close to the maximum weight as possible.

Some boys not yet entered have already started to build their cars. This is wrong. As the car must be built to certain specifications, entries should be filed to eliminate the possibility of any waste of construction.

Registration may be made at either the Y. M. C. A. or Mohican Chevrolet company, co-sponsers of the race. A book of instructions, which includes tips on how to build the racer, also blueprints on how to make the car safe, sturdy and speedy are given.

Allen's Torn Shirt Becomes a Museum Piece

Pitcher Johnny Allen, shown at the right with Owner Alva Bradley, of the Cleveland Indians, is happy about the whole shirt business In Boston, Manager Cronin of the Red Sox complained that Allen's tattered right sleeve gave him an advantage in pitching. Allen was sent into the clubhouse to change his shirt. He refused. Manager Vitt, of the Indians, fined Allen $250 and replaced him with another pitcher. So a Cleveland store bought the controversial shirt, draped it over a good-looking dummy, and put it on display. Just how much Allen got for the shirt hasn't been revealed. An employe of the store is pointing to the historic sleeve at the left.

Braucher Predicts Schmeling Will Be First Ex-Champion to Recover Heavyweight Crown

By BILL BRAUCHER

MAX SCHMELING will enter the ring in Yankee stadium the night of June 22 possessing an advantage over his opponent that was enjoyed by none of the other ex-champions who tried to recover the heavyweight title. Max already has knocked out Joe Louis. He knows how to fight Louis.

And Joe Louis begins this fight with the knowledge that the man in front of him has beaten him down with righthand punches. Louis knows, too, that his opponent has taken his hardest blows, has shaken them off, and come on to win.

These are factors that make the meeting of Louis and Schmeling strangely different from any other heavyweight championship battle in the ring's long history. Can Schmeling do it again? Has Louis learned how to avoid that right hand? Has the champion's shattered confidence been restored by easy conquests since his victory over Jimmy Braddock? Is Schmeling too old?

I think Schmeling will win. I don't think Louis has learned how to avoid a right hand. Neither do I think that Joe's confidence has been restored. I do not think Schmeling is too old. It's my guess that Schmeling will knock out Louis along about the eighth round. Just a minute and I'll explain.

Schmeling is not the only man who proved Joe Louis was easy to hit by a right-hand punch. Every opponent Joe has met has been able to smack him with a right, but it took a great right like Schmeling's to knock him out. Why is Louis a sucker for a right? Because he drops his left low before shooting with it. He telegraphs. Against a righthand puncher like Schmeling, that is suicide.

It is hard to overcome a beating mentally, such as Louis took at the hands of Schmeling two years ago before taking the count in the twelfth round. Joe has beaten other men since then. His punch was working against them beautifully. Yet, but none of them was Schmeling. This man is the one who took a dozen of Joe's best punches during the early rounds and kept coming right in. Joe can't forget that. And what Joe knows also is that he will have to get rid of Schmeling earily if he is going to win.

Schmeling is 32, will be 33 in September. That is an advanced age as ring ages are reckoned nowadays, but the German is a remarkable man. He has built himself into splendid physical fitness by daily drill since dropping the title to Jack Sharkey six years ago. In all his recent fights he has shown great stamina. His legs have held up wonderfully. He always has been careful of what he ate and drank.

North, Johns Park Representatives Win Again to Remain in Tie for Lead

Kenny Ross Stars at Plate as Johnnies Trim Prospect for Second Victory.

KENNY ROSS had his day out at Johns park yesterday as the hosts manufactured an 8 to 2 victory at the expense of Prospect park before a large assemblage to remain undefeated in the City Class A Softball league, sponsored by the city recreation department.

The Johnnies' shortstop not only experienced a big day at the plate, but also in the field.

Collects Three Hits.

Ross collected three hits and a walk in four trips to the plate to drive home four of the eight runs registered by Manager John Flockenzier's team.

He wasn't content with mere singles, either. Kenny slapped out a pair of hefty triples and a double off the delivery of Ted Frisbee.

In the field, Ross handled eight chances without a slip to stand out in this department of play.

Jimmy Fullager was on the hill for the Johns representatives again yesterday, and held the visitors scoreless until the seventh. Prospect tallied its other run in the eighth.

Fullager, who helped his own cause with a home run, the only one of the game, yielded eight hits, but kept them well scattered as he struck out four without issuing a pass.

Johns park collected 10 hits off Frisbee as it tallied once in the first, twice each in the third and fifth, once in the sixth and two more in the seventh. Frisbee struck out four and walked five.

Pull Fielding Gem.

A fielding feature of the game was Left Fielder Judy's sensational catch of Bob Bride's bid for a home run late in the game.

The defeat was the second of the season for the Prospectors, who were strengthened for yesterday's game by the addition of Nick Weber, former Mansfield high school athlete, who just returned from Tennessee university. Weber obtained one hit, a double.

City Baseball Leagues Open Skeds Monday

Recreation Department Sponsors Three Loops.

The curtain will be lifted on the city recreation department's baseball schedule next Monday.

The lineup of the three circuits sponsored annually by the department under the direction of Al Fendrick, recreation director, are indefinite, but it is hoped to have eight teams in each the Junior and Intermediate leagues.

Heads Program.

Orville Kibler, Ontario high school athletic director, will again supervise the baseball program, and he said today that 10 teams have already entered.

Kibler urges all managers of teams not yet entered to register immediately as schedules will be drafted this week. Registration blanks may be secured at the department on the third floor of the city building. They may be obtained between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. any day this week.

The leagues will be run under the same rules as last season. Boys under 14 years of age will make up the Junior league, with 17 the age limit for the Intermediate circuit and 20 the limit for the Twilight loop.

The Junior and Intermediate league games will be played at the Fairground, Kibler stated, while the Twilight tilts will be billed at Liberty park.

Award Trophies.

Trophies will be presented to the champions of each league. Kibler also said that plans to take the winners to Cleveland for a ball game are also being considered.

A meeting of managers is scheduled at the city building at 1 p. m. Wednesday.

Open Players In PGA Test

Boys Back From Denver in Trials Today.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Smarting under a whipping handed them by Joe Par, two of Ohio's paid-to-play golfers tuned up their clubs today for the National P. G. A. tournament after qualifying in 36 holes at the Columbus Country club.

The pair, Johnny Malutic, Girard, and Leonard Schmutte, Findlay, had identical scores of 146, two over par, to assure themselves of berths in the professional meet at Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., July 10-16.

Such stars as Gene Marchi Dayton, Lloyd Gullickson, Elyria, and Reggie Myles, Cleveland, fell victims of the tough Columbus layout. Marchi missed qualifying by a single stroke.

Ohio entrants in the National Open at Denver were scheduled to test their golfing prowess over the 36-hole route today.

They are Billy Burke, Bob Shave and Carmen Bill, Cleveland, Jack Thompson, Youngstown, and Benny Berning, Cincinnati Seven players will go to the P. G. A. from Ohio.

Sportsmen Register Seven of Nine Runs in Two Heats to Down Liberty Park.

THE Richland County Fish and Game association's softball club, representing North park, chalked up its second victory in as many City Class A league games at the home fort yesterday.

The Sportsmen, managed by Frank Beeber, registered a 9 to 5 triumph to hand Liberty Park its second straight setback.

Two Big Innings.

Two big innings were enough to beat the Liberties, but, after scoring four in the third, the Sportsmen added single runs in the fifth and sixth and finished their run-making with three in the seventh.

Lefty Garver again proved himself to be one of the best moundsmen in the circuit as he limited the losers to single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth. The invaders tallied their last runs in the ninth as they made a futile attempt to overtake the leaders.

Garver failed to register a single strike-out as he hung up his second win, and he was charged with only three walks.

Joe Wentz started on the mound for the Liberties, but was rescued by John Bush in the seventh. The latter whiffed three in his short appearance on the hill.

Ed Channel obtained a pair of doubles, and Balbaugh, Seymour, Henrich and France secured two singles apiece to lead the Sportsmen at the plate. Jimmy Villella pounded out a double and single for the losers.

Errors Costly.

Four of the five errors committed by the Liberty park contingent caused Wentz much of his trouble.

North Park tallied its first four runs with the assistance of Vogel's error, Channel's double and singles by Balbaugh, Henrich and France. Singles by Balbaugh, Seymour and Henrich and an error by Bosko enabled the Sportsmen to tally their last three in the seventh.

Wednesday's 'Miller Day' At Johns Park

Sends Schoolmasters Against His Old Champs.

Harold Miller's big day will come Wednesday at Johns park.

That is the day Manager Miller sends his Schoolmasters against the Hughes-Keenan "Iron Mules" he piloted to city championships in 1928, 1929 and 1930.

The Senior high school instructor's present team is undefeated in the Club Softball league, but whether it can halt the old "Iron Mules" is a matter that will be decided Wednesday.

The "Iron Mules" lineup will include such outstanding performers as Jimmy Fullagher, Harry Ross, Ray Hunt, Freddy Carver, Ed Channel and Frank Balbaugh, just to mention a few.

And Pete Grohol, who was connected with the "Mules" in their heydey, will handle the school teachers' opponent.

Cabs Ride into Lead From Second Division

Deluxe Club Blanks Matthes Clothiers to Gain Van In Tight News-Journal Race.

TODAY it would be rather difficult to predict the outcome of the News-Journal Class A golf league race.

The Deluxe Cabs are riding in first place today, with the Goldsmith Clothiers, Big Three Beers and Richland Printers grouped in a tie for the runner-up position one point behind.

The Yuncker Sports and Matthes Clothiers hold down the bottom positions, but don't sell their chances short as both clubs appear powerful enough to figure as factors in the race before the curtain is rung down.

Add Five Points.

It was the Cabbies who stole most of the show yesterday as they jumped from a tie for fourth place into the van post on their sweep over the Matthes Clothiers, 5 to 0.

The defeat dumped the Matthes team into the cellar, one point behind the Sports, who checked off

a 3 to 2 victory at the expense of the Beers.

Bill Kuhn's Richland Printers trimmed the defending champions, 3 to 0, with two points of the match in doubt because of a postponement.

Vin Malaska turned in a powerful game of golf to help the Cabs blank their foe. He rolled out a one-over-par 36 on the outside nine to whip Carl Kushin, who marked up a 37

The match was decided on the last hole when Kushin took a six on the long par five.

Malaska shot a birdie two on the second hole to take the first lead. Kushin was unable to square the match until the sixth, or 15th, when Malaska went two above perfect figures while he took a five on the par four. This was the only hole Malaska went over par.

Chuck Snyder was a big help to the Cabs with a 37. Bob Dillon and Lawrence Deley hung up the other Deluxe points with a 40 and 41, respectively

Paul Jesson Low.

Medal honors for the day were annexed by Paul Jesson of the Beers, who walloped a 35. Jesson birdied No. 11, 12 and 17 to write his nifty card. No. 13 and 16 were the only holes which offered him any trouble.

Nick Linster blasted out a 38 for the major highlight of the Sports' scoring.

Vitt Revises Tribal Staff

Plans to Use Humphries in Regular Turn.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Manager Oscar Vitt revised Cleveland's pitching department today to send young Johnny Humphries against the Washington Senators.

It was the first time since the season opened that Vitt abandoned a "Big Four" rotation save for injuries.

Humphries, a major league freshman with only one year of minor circuit experience after leaving college, thus stepped in line with Bob Feller, Johnny Allen, Mel Harder and Earl Whitehill the Indians' ace foursome that slumped on the recent eastern invasion

Humphries relieved Johnny Allen at Boston last week after the "ventilated shirt" episode and held the Red Sox hitless for six and two-thirds innings Only one man reached first base.

Reds Bolster Mound Staff

BROOKLYN — (UP) — Confident that the acquisition of "Bucky" Walter gives them one of the best pitching staffs in the National league, the Cincinnati Reds opened a long eastern trip here today with the hope they can inject themselves squarely into the pennant picture within the next two weeks.

Walters, secured yesterday from the Philadelphia Phillies in exchange for Pitcher Al Hollingsworth, Catcher Virgil Davis and an unannounced cash sum, is recognized as one of the best right-handed hurlers in the circuit and will team with Paul Derringer, Johnny Vander Meer and Jim Weaver as the Reds' "Big Four."

McKINLEY YIELDS ONE HIT IN 17-1 VICTORY

Yesterday was Dale McKinley's day at Raemelton Farm. The young softball pitcher struck out 15 and permitted only one hit as he hurled the Musille Cigars to a 17 to 1 victory over the farm team. McKinley also collected three singles to lead the attack. Callahan and Schadek collected a triple and single apiece for the winners. Gabautz obtained the only hit for the losers.

THEATER

UNITED ARTISTS have a full house in production this season with several big pictures in the process of being made. One of the most ambitious is "Algiers" with Charles Boyer, while another is "Blockade," formerly started under the title of "The River Is Blue," with Madeline Carroll and Henry Fonda. Merle Oberon will make a picture for Goldwyn on the U. A. lot, which is as yet untitled. "The Young In Heart," starring Janet Gaynor, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Paulette Goddard (at long last), with Roland Young, Billie Burke and Minnie Dupree, is being megaphoned by Richard Wallace. It is an English play, many of the scenes being laid in London. And then "Marco Polo" was a United Artists production, but that was released several months ago.

Olsen and Johnson.

Mansfield stage fans will get their first "in person" glimpse of one of the headline radio acts today when Olsen and Johnson, famous vaudevillians, bring their new show "Hellzapoppin" to the Madison theater for two days, with the Three Radio Rogues as a stellar supporting act. They have been seen in Mansfield a number of time in pictures, but this will be their first stage appearance here. They are famous for their impersonations of celebrities and in the new show give take-offs on Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor, Ed Wynn, Ben Bernie, Bing Crosby, Wallace Berry, Clark Gable, Nelson Eddy and Kate Smith. Their impersonations are not only true to character but some are excruciatingly funny. Besides the Radio Rogues, Olsen and Johnson have Walter Nilsson, the famous cyclist who is one of Bob Ripley's Believe-It-Or-Not features; the Olechics dancing team; Reed, Dean and Reed, the "swingdingers"; Shirley Wayne, Billy Adams, Dotty Thomas and Roberts and Ray. The show is heralded as one of the best of the Olsen and Johnson revues.

"You and Me."

Sylvia Sidney, who proved herself one of the first tragediennes in such films as "American Tragedy," "Street Scene," "Furry" and "You Live Only Once" comes to the Ohio screen for three days, starting Wednesday in "You and Me," with George Raft. Fritz Lang, the director who made the daring picture "Fury," also made and directed the new drama of two people that were hounded by their pasts. Once again Miss Sidney plays an ex-convict on parole who takes her happiness where she finds it. She marries a man without telling him that she is on parole and her tricks to report to the probation officer without being discovered, leads to unhappy complications. The cast includes a number of well known character players.

"Life of Zola."

Emile Zola, the man who picked a faded rose from the streets of Paris and made her the heroine of his immortal "Nana," later used his powerful pen and influence in the defense of a man who was shamefully framed into disgrace and oblivion. The great French writer and crusader for the under-dog comes to live again in the Warner Brothers picture of his life, his works and his exile. Paul Muni, one of the best that Hollywood has to offer, is seen in the title role, with Joseph Schildkraut as the officer who was "railroaded" to Devils Island. The Majestic theater offer this Accademy winner for its mid-week program, with the second attraction another highly praised film. It is "Submarine D-1."

"Merry-Go-Round."

Four outstanding comedians, each with an original type of comedy, are featured in "Merry-Go-Round of 1938," which the Ritz offers Wednesday and Thursday. They are Bert Lahr, Jimmie Savon, big, rotund Billy House and Mischa Auer. They are presented as the four foster fathers of a pretty young orphan, Joy Hodges. The girl's mother, a vaudeville player, dies back stage and the Grand Street Comedy Boys adopt the child. For 20 years they "mother" the girl—and then they have to live through the misery of her romance with another man, and all of their ability is pitted against an aunt who opposes the marriage. The picture has comedy of the rib-tickling variety and a pretty romance. Alice Brady, Louise Fazenda and John King are in the cast.

Allen's Torn Shirt Becomes a Museum Piece

Pitcher Johnny Allen, shown at the right with Owner Alva Bradley, of the Cleveland Indians, is happy about the whole shirt business. In Boston, Manager Cronin of the Red Sox complained that Allen's tattered right sleeve gave him an advantage in pitching. Allen was sent into the clubhouse to change his shirt. He refused. Manager Vitt, of the Indians, fined Allen $250 and replaced him with another pitcher. So a Cleveland store bought the controversial shirt, draped it over a good-looking dummy, and put it on display. Just how much Allen got for the shirt hasn't been revealed. An employe of the store is pointing to the historic sleeve at the left.

Cabs Ride into Lead From Second Division

Deluxe Club Blanks Matthes Clothiers to Gain Van In Tight News-Journal Race.

TODAY it would be rather difficult to predict the outcome of the News-Journal Class A golf league race.

The Deluxe Cabs are riding in first place today, with the Goldsmith Clothiers, Big Three Beers and Richland Printers grouped in a tie for the runner-up position one point behind.

The Yuncker Sports and Matthes Clothiers hold down the bottom positions, but don't sell their chances short as both clubs appear powerful enough to figure as factors in the race before the curtain is rung down.

Add Five Points.

It was the Cabbies who stole most of the show yesterday as they jumped from a tie for fourth place into the van post on their sweep over the Matthes Clothiers, 5 to 0.

The defeat dumped the Matthes team into the cellar, one point behind the Sports who checked off

NEWS-JOURNAL A LEAGUE	W.	L.	Pts.

Big Three Beers	8	6	10

a 3 to 2 victory at the expense of the Beers.

Bill Kuhn's Richland Printers trimmed the defending champions, 3 to 0, with two points of the match in doubt because of a postponement.

Vin Malaska turned in a powerful game of golf to help the Cabs blank their foe. He rolled out a one-over-par 36 on the outside nine to whip Carl Kushin, who marked up a 37.

The match was decided on the last hole when Kushin took a six on the long par five.

Malaska shot a birdie two on the second hole to take the first lead. Kushin was unable to square the match until the sixth, or 15th, when Malaska went two above perfect figures while he took a five on the par four. This was the only hole Malaska went over par.

Chuck Snyder was a big help to the Cabs with a 37. Bob Dillon and Lawrence Deley hung up the other Deluxe points with a 40 and 41, respectively.

Paul Jesson Low.

Medal honors for the day were annexed by Paul Jesson of the Beers, who walloped a 35. Jesson birdied No. 11, 12 and 17 to write his nifty card. No. 13 and 16 were the only holes which offered him any trouble.

Nick Linster blasted out a 38 for the major highlight of the Sports' scoring.

The Goldsmith team was extremely erratic as it dropped the lead.

Vitt Revises Tribal Staff

Plans to Use Humphries in Regular Turn.

CLEVELAND —(UP)— Manager Oscar Vitt revised Cleveland's pitching department today to send young Johnny Humphries against the Washington Senators.

It was the first time since the season opened that Vitt abandoned a "Big Four" rotation save for injuries.

Humphries, a major league freshman with only one year of minor circuit experience after leaving college, thus stepped in line with Bob Feller, Johnny Allen, Mel Harder and Earl Whitehill the Indians' ace foursome that slumped on the recent eastern invasion.

Humphries relieved Johnny Allen at Boston last week after the "ventilated shirt" episode and held the Red Sox hitless for six and two-thirds innings. Only one man reached first base.

Ken Chase, a leftnander who has been effective against the Tribe, was Humphries' mound rival in the opening game of the engagement with Washington, a series which Cleveland enters with its league lead shaved down to one and a half games.

Braucher Predicts Schmeling Will Be First Ex-Champion to Recover Heavyweight Crown

By BILL BRAUCHER

MAX SCHMELING will enter the ring in Yankee stadium the night of June 22 possessing an advantage over his opponent that was enjoyed by none of the other ex-champions who tried to recover the heavyweight title. Max already has knocked out Joe Louis. He knows how to fight Louis.

And Joe Louis begins this fight with the knowledge that the man in front of him has beaten him down with righthand punches. Louis knows, too, that his opponent has taken his hardest blows, has shaken them off, and come on to win.

These are factors that make the meeting of Louis and Schmeling strangely different from any other heavyweight championship battle in the ring's long history. Can Schmeling do it again? Has Louis learned how to avoid that right hand? Has the champion's shattered confidence been restored by easy conquests since his victory over Jimmy Braddock? Is Schmeling too old?

I think Schmeling will win. I don't think Louis has learned how to avoid a right hand. Neither do I think that Joe's confidence has been restored. I do not think Schmeling is too old. It's my guess that Schmeling will knock out Louis along about the eighth round. Just a minute and I'll explain.

Schmeling is not the only man who proved Joe Louis was easy to hit by a right-hand punch. Every opponent Joe has met has been able to smack him with a right, but it took a great right like Schmeling's to knock him out. Why is Louis a sucker for a right? Because he drops his left low before shooting with it. He telegraphs. Against a righthand puncher like Schmeling, that is suicide.

It is hard to overcome a beating mentally, such as Louis took at the hands of Schmeling two years ago before taking the count in the twelfth round. Joe has beaten other men since then. His punch was working against them beautifully. Yet, but none of them was Schmeling. This man is the one who took a dozen of Joe's best punches during the early rounds and kept coming right in. Joe can't forget that. And what Joe knows also is that he will have to get rid of Schmeling earily if he is going to win.

Schmeling is 32, will be 33 in September. That is an advanced age as ring ages are reckoned nowadays, but the German is a remarkable man. He has built himself into splendid physical fitness by daily drill since dropping the title to Jack Sharkey six years ago. In all his recent fights he has shown great stamina. His legs have held up wonderfully. He always has been careful of what he ate and drank.

North, Johns Park Representatives Win Again to Remain in Tie for Lead

Kenny Ross Stars at Plate as Johnnies Trim Prospect for Second Victory.

KENNY ROSS had his day out at Johns park yesterday as the hosts manufactured an 8 to 2 victory at the expense of Prospect park before a large assemblage to remain undefeated in the City Class A Softball league, sponsored by the city recreation department.

The Johnnies' shortstop not only experienced a big day at the plate, but also in the field.

Collects Three Hits.

Ross collected three hits and a walk in four trips to the plate to drive home four of the eight runs registered by Manager John Flockenzier's team.

He wasn't content with mere singles, either. Kenny slapped out a pair of hefty triples and a double off the delivery of Ted Frisbee.

In the field, Ross handled eight chances without a slip to stand out in this department of play.

Jimmy Fullager was on the hill for the Johns representatives again yesterday, and held the visitors scoreless until the seventh. Prospect tallied its other run in the eighth.

Fullager, who helped his own cause with a home run, the only one of the game, yielded eight hits, but kept them well scattered as he struck out four without issuing a pass.

Johns park collected 10 hits off Frisbee as it tallied once in the first, twice each in the third and fifth, once in the sixth and two more in the seventh. Frisbee struck out four and walked five.

Pull Fielding Gem.

A fielding feature of the game was Left Fielder Judy's sensational catch of Bob Bride's bid for a home run late in the game.

The defeat was the second of the season for the Prospectors, who were strengthened for yesterday's game by the addition of Nick Weber, former Mansfield high school athlete, who just returned from Tennessee university. Weber obtained one hit, a double.

Reds Bolster Mound Staff

BROOKLYN — (UP) — Confident that the acquisition of "Bucky" Walter gives them one of the best pitching staffs in the National league, the Cincinnati Reds opened a long eastern trip here today with the hope they can inject themselves squarely into the pennant picture within the next two weeks.

Walters secured yesterday from the Philadelphia Phillies in exchange for Pitcher Al Hollingsworth, Catcher Virgil Davis and an unannounced cash sum, is recognized as one of the best righthanded hurlers in the circuit and will team with Paul Derringer, Johnny Vander Meer and Jim Weaver as the Reds' "Big Four."

McKINLEY YIELDS ONE HIT IN 17-1 VICTORY

Yesterday was Dale McKinley's day at Raemelton Farm. The young softball pitcher struck out 15 and permitted only one hit as he hurled the Musille Cigars to a 17 to 1 victory over the farm team. McKinley also collected three singles to lead the attack. Callahan and Schadek collected a triple and single apiece for the winners. Gabautz obtained the only hit for the losers.

City Baseball Leagues Open Skeds Monday

Recreation Department Sponsors Three Loops.

The curtain will be lifted on the city recreation department's baseball schedule next Monday.

The lineup of the three circuits sponsored annually by the department under the direction of Al Fendrick, recreation director, are indefinite, but it is hoped to have eight teams in each the Junior and Intermediate leagues.

Heads Program.

Orville Kibler, Ontario high school athletic director, will again supervise the baseball program, and he said today that 10 teams have already entered.

Kibler urges all managers of teams not yet entered to register immediately as schedules will be drafted this week. Registration blanks may be secured at the department on the third floor of the city building. They may be obtained between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. any day this week.

The leagues will be run under the same rules as last season. Boys under 14 years of age will make up the Junior league, with 17 the age limit for the Intermediate circuit and 20 the limit for the Twilight loop.

The Junior and Intermediate league games will be played at the Fairground, Kibler stated, while the Twilight tilts will be billed at Liberty park.

Award Trophies.

Trophies will be presented to the champions of each league. Kibler also said that plans to take the winners to Cleveland for a ball game are also being considered.

A meeting of managers is scheduled at the city building at 1 p. m. Wednesday.

Open Players In PGA Test

Boys Back From Denver in Trials Today.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Smarting under a whipping handed them by Joe Par, two of Ohio's paid-to-play golfers tuned up their clubs today for the National P. G. A. tournament after qualifying in 36 holes at the Columbus Country club.

The pair, Johnny Malutic, Girard, and Leonard Schmutte, Findlay, had identical scores of 146, two over par, to assure themselves of berths in the professional meet at Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., July 10-16.

Such stars as Gene Marchi, Dayton, Lloyd Gullickson, Elyria, and Reggie Myles, Cleveland, fell victims of the tough Columbus layout. Marchi missed qualifying by a single stroke.

Ohio entrants in the National Open at Denver were scheduled to test their golfing prowess over the 36-hole route today.

They are Billy Burke, Bob Shave and Carmen Bill, Cleveland, Jack Thompson, Youngstown, and Benny Berning, Cincinnati. Seven players will go to the P. G. A. from Ohio.

Sportsmen Register Seven of Nine Runs in Two Heats to Down Liberty Park.

THE Richland County Fish and Game association's softball club, representing North park, chalked up its second victory in as many City Class A league games at the home fort yesterday.

The Sportsmen, managed by Frank Beeber, registered a 9 to 5 triumph to hand Liberty Park its second straight setback.

Two Big Innings.

Two big innings were enough to beat the Liberties, but, after scoring four in the third, the Sportsmen added single runs in the fifth and sixth and finished their runmaking with three in the seventh.

Lefty Garver again proved himself to be one of the best moundsmen in the circuit as he limited the losers to single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth. The invaders tallied their last runs in the ninth as they made a futile attempt to overtake the leaders.

Garver failed to register a single strike-out as he hung up his second win, and he was charged with only three walks.

Joe Wentz started on the mound for the Liberties, but was rescued by John Bush in the seventh. The latter whiffed three in his short appearance on the hill.

Ed Channel obtained a pair of doubles, and Balbaugh, Seymour, Henrich and France secured two singles apiece to lead the Sportsmen at the plate. Jimmy Villiella pounded out a double and single for the losers.

Errors Costly.

Four of the five errors committed by the Liberty park contingent caused Wentz much of his trouble.

North Park tallied its first four runs with the assistance of Vogel's error, Channel's double and singles by Balbaugh, Henrich and France. Singles by Balbaugh, Seymour and Henrich and an error by Bosko enabled the Sportsmen to tally their last three in the seventh.

Gross whiffed 13 and walked a pair as he yielded only five hits. The Oils won the game in the ninth after tying the count 2-all in the seventh. Metz clubbed out three bingles for the losers, while H. Wednesday's 'Miller Day' At Johns Park

Sends Schoolmasters Against His Old Champs.

Harold Miller's big day will come Wednesday at Johns park.

That is the day Manager Miller sends his Schoolmasters against the Hughes-Keenan "Iron Mules" he piloted to city championships in 1928, 1929 and 1930.

The Senior high school instructor's present team is undefeated in the Club Softball league, but whether it can halt the old "Iron Mules" is a matter that will be decided Wednesday.

The "Iron Mules" lineup will include such outstanding performers as Jimmy Fullagher, Harry Ross, Ray Hunt, Freddy Carver, Ed Channel and Frank Balbaugh, just to mention a few.

And Pete Grohol, who was connected with the "Mules" in their heydey, will handle the school teachers' opponent.

THEATER

UNITED ARTISTS have a full house in production this season with several big pictures in the process of being made. One of the most ambitious is "Algiers" with Charles Boyer, while another is "Blockade," formerly started under the title of "The River Is Blue," with Madeline Carroll and Henry Fonda. Merle Oberon will make a picture for Goldwyn on the U. A lot, which is as yet untitled. "The Young In Heart," starring Janet Gaynor, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Paulette Goddard (at long last), with Roland Young, Billie Burke and Minnie Dupree, is being megaphoned by Richard Wallace. It is an English play, many of the scenes being laid in London. And then "Marco Polo" was a United Artists production, but that was released several months ago.

Olsen and Johnson.

Mansfield stage fans will get their first "in person" glimpse of one of the headline radio acts today when Olsen and Johnson, famous vaudevillians, bring their new show "Hellzapoppin" to the Madison theater for two days, with the Three Radio Rogues as a stellar supporting act. They have been seen in Mansfield a number of time in pictures, but this will be their first stage appearance here. They are famous for their impersonations of celebrities and in the new show give take-offs on Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor, Ed Wynn, Ben Bernie, Bing Crosby, Wallace Berry, Clark Gable, Nelson Eddy and Kate Smith. Their impersonations are not only true to character but some are excruciatingly funny. Besides the Radio Rogues, Olsen and Johnson have Walter Nilsson, the famous cyclist who is one of Bob Ripley's Believe-It-Or-Not features; the Olechics dancing team; Reed, Dean and Reed, the "swingdingers"; Shirley Wayne, Billy Adams, Dotty Thomas and Roberts and Ray. The show is heralded as one of the best of the Olsen and Johnson revues.

"You and Me."

Sylvia Sidney, who proved herself one of the first tragediennes in such films as "American Tragedy," "Street Scene," "Furry" and "You Live Only Once" comes to the Ohio screen for three days, starting Wednesday in "You and Me," with George Raft. Fritz Lang, the director who made the daring picture "Fury," also made and directed the new drama of two people that were hounded by their pasts. Once again Miss Sidney plays an ex-convict on parole who takes her happiness where she finds it. She marries a man without telling him that she is on parole and her tricks to report to the probation officer without being discovered, leads to unhappy complications. The cast includes a number of well known character players.

"Life of Zola."

Emile Zola, the man who picked a faded rose from the streets of Paris and made her the heroine of his immortal "Nana," later used his powerful pen and influence in the defense of a man who was shamefully framed into disgrace and oblivion. The great French writer and crusader for the under-dog comes to live again in the Warner Brothers picture of his life, his works and his exile. Paul Muni, one of the best that Hollywood has to offer, is seen in the title role, with Joseph Schildkraut as the officer who was "railroaded" to Devils Island. The Majestic theater offer this Accademy winner for its mid-week program, with the second attraction another highly praised film. It is "Submarine D-1."

"Merry-Go-Round."

Four outstanding comedians, each with an original type of comedy, are featured in "Merry-Go-Round of 1938," which the Ritz offers Wednesday and Thursday. They are Bert Lahr, Jimmie Savon, big, rotund Billy House and Mischa Auer. They are presented as the four foster fathers of a pretty young orphan, Joy Hodges. The girl's mother, a vaudeville player, dies back stage and the Grand Street Comedy Boys adopt the child. For 20 years they "mother" the girl—and then they have to live through the misery of her romance with another man, and all of their ability is pitted against an aunt who opposes the marriage. The picture has comedy of the rib-tickling variety and a pretty romance. Alice Brady, Louise Fazenda and John King are in the cast.

LOWER PRICES POSTED DURING WEAK OPENING

Developments in Washington Lend Little Cheer to Mart; Bonds Give Ground.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—(AP)—Faint rallying gestures were made by the stock market today after slightly lower prices were posted at the opening.

Wall Street found nothing much to cheer about in Washington developments.

A cut of $3 a ton in galvanized steel sheet by the Carnegie-Illinois company, chief subsidiary of U. S. Steel, and another decline in steel scrap at Pittsburgh to a new low for the move, called attention to the scantiness of business in this field. Bonds and major commodities were inclined to give ground.

Market analysts derived little satisfaction from the monthly survey of the federal reserve bank of New York which disclosed bankers' dollar acceptances outstanding in May amounted to $268,098,573, the smallest total since the end of 1916.

Those watching the tire companies for signs of a rebound in trade noted statistics of the Rubber Manufacturers association which showed an increase of 3.4 per cent in May consumption of crude rubber over April by manufacturers in the United States, but a fall of 44.1 per cent from the 1937 month.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON—(AP)—(U. S. Dept. Agr.)—Spot business in the Boston wool market was very slow yesterday but there was a small to moderate amount of direct buying through Boston houses. A large portion of the direct business was on Texas wools at prices tending to the high side of the range 55 to 57 cents scoured basis for 12-month wools. Country packed mixed grade lots of three eighth and quarter blood fleeces were being purchased direct at prices ranging 42 to 44 cents scoured basis delivered east or around 23 to 24 cents in the grease for average bright fleeces shrinking about 45 to 46 per cent. These prices were unchanged from the close of last week.

LEWIS' APPEAL FOR 'BLACKLIST' DIES IN HOUSE

Rules Committee Orders Bill to Augment Labor Measures Tabled for Session.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—John L. Lewis apparently lost his fight to obtain house action on the far-reaching amendments to the Walsh-Healey government contracts bill today when the house rules committee tabled a resolution to send the measure to the floor for a vote.

The rules committee action was tantamount to killing the measure for this session since without rules committee approval bills cannot be brought up for a vote in the session-closing drive.

The rules body met today to consider action on the measure after Lewis personally visited the capitol yesterday and urged members to give the bill right-of-way.

Establishes 'Blacklist.'

The measure would establish a government "blacklist" of violators of the national labor relations board orders and these violators would not be allowed to contract to do business with the government.

CIO Chairman Lewis stated his demand for action on proposed amendments to the Walsh-Healy act of 1936 yesterday in conference in the office of Speaker William B. Bankhead. He warned Democratic house leaders and congressmen to pass the bill or the New Deal would answer them in this fall's elections.

Lewis, demanding that the bill be "at least acted upon by the house," charged that dozens of companies are "fattening on government contracts and they ought to obey the law while they are doing it."

In addition to the "blacklist" provision, the proposed legislation would recognize the principle of "check-off" payments of union dues whereby employers deduct such charges from pay envelopes for disbursement directly to unions.

The Walsh-Healey act of 1936 provided:

1. A 40-hour work week for all employes engaged in making materials, supplies or equipment purchased by the federal government under contracts involving more than $10,000.

2. That workers receive not less than the minimum prevailing wage in their locality, as determined by the secretary of labor.

3. That youths under 16 and girls under 18 years of age not be employed in work under such contracts.

4. Prohibition of convict labor.

5. Guarantees of sanitary and non-hazardous working conditions

6. That contractors violating the act be penalized and barred for three years from further government contracts

JUST A RAT TALE

Radio Going Full Blast Keeps Rodents From Henhouse.

VARPARAISO, Ind.—(AP)— Dr. Harry V. Fuller, former head of Valparaiso University's science department, used a radio to drive rats from his henhouse.

After rats killed 400 young turkeys in the henhouse, he installed the radio and kept it going full blast night and day.

The rats disappeared, he said.

than when the house first passed the bill.

Senate Leader Barkley (D-Ky) said there might be some debate in that chamber, but he expressed belief it would not be extended.

Barkley was not certain the relief and public works bill could be reached by the senate today because two items in the $3,753,000,000 measure appeared likely to encounter house opposition.

They were a $212,000,000 appropriation for parity payments to cotton, corn and wheat farmers and $1,000,000 additional for the rural electrification administration. A joint committee approved both proposals before reaching a final agreement late yesterday.

Rep. Woodrum (D-Va) said President Roosevelt opposed the $212,000,000 farm outlay, but other leaders declared they had informed the chief executive the house would approve it by a three-to-one margin.

Although administration chieftains decided to sidetrack legislation to give financial aid to railroads, senate sponsors made a final appeal to the finance committee to consider liberalizing RFC loans to the carriers.

Railway labor executives also arranged a conference to discuss dropping their opposition. They had fought the RFC loans because of a proposed wage cut for rail employes.

The house passed yesterday a bill to create a separate unemployment insurance system for rail employes. It was supported by labor organizations but opposed by representatives of management. Senate sponsors sought to bring it up in the chamber this afternoon.

Behind the wage-hour and relief bills on the house calendar were resolutions for investigations of monopolies, the radio industry, and problems affecting the merchant marine. Administration leaders opposed the radio inquiry, contending it could be included in the anti-trust study

Seeks Amendment of Sinking Fund Law; Given $13,250 From 'Stop-Gap' Funds.

Commerce committee on taxation and public finance late yesterday at which the C. of C. group urged the city to go before the Ohio legislature and seek modification of present statutes to permit cities to transfer surplus funds from the sinking fund to meet relief needs.

City officials agreed to seek such a change in the state law that would legalize the transfer of $50,000 from Mansfield's special bond assessment retirement fund, which is now under consideration in common pleas court.

It is this request which City Solicitor Marion D. Ward said he believed cannot be made legally that brought about the proposal from the committee headed by A. E. Courtney.

The petition for the transfer is expected to be ruled on this week and if approved, would provide funds for relief bills for the balance of 1938 A proposed 2-mill levy which will be submitted to the voters at the August primaries is intended to supply funds for 1939 and 1940

Mayor Claude M. Hunter said that the C. of C. proposal had been turned over to Ward to study the possibility of modifying present laws before it would be submitted to the legislature through Ralph C. Lutz, Richland county representative.

Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the chamber said he planned to obtain the co-operation of other cities in making similar requests in order to bring pressure on the legislature.

In the meantime at Columbus the state board of control today authorized 24 counties with the most pressing relief needs to borrow $1,302,565 under the $1,500,000 "stop-gap" relief loan bill passed last week.

Richland county was allocated $13,250, and with the approval of the state tax commission, can borrow up to 90 per cent of that amount on anticipated 1939 sales tax receipts.

The balance of the loan, $197,435 was retained by the state as a "cushion fund" in case other counties find it necessary to take advantage of the bill.

sea 200 miles south of the present outlet on the other side of the Shantung peninsula.

The course would sweep across much of the area now occupied by Japanese troops and lines of communications established in their Shantung campaign to cut the East-West Lunghai railway for an advance upon Hankow, China's provisional capital, 300 miles south of Chengchow.

Peasants Flee.

The river, besides cutting off the Japanese advance and hindering its communications, was sending a stream of Chinese peasant refugees, toward the west, driven from their homes by the rising waters.

Should the flood follow the lines of 1935, military experts pointed out, the Japanese occupation of the area would be jeopardized.

Then 3,000 square miles of southern Shantung, northern Honan and northern Kiangsu provinces were inundated.

The flood struck directly into the territory recently occupied by the Japanese army and left millions homeless

The Japanese said today their fleet had advanced 15 miles up the river from Anking, Anhwei provincial capital, taken in a surprise attack through darkness and fog yesterday. From Anking they had a 215-mile drive to Hankow ahead of them.

Japanese reported all American missionaries at Anking were safe, including Margaret Colson of Zanesville, O.

Meanwhile at Peiping two American universities and a French institution defied orders of the Japanese-sponsored North China government to participate in political parades and mass demnstratins against the central Chinese government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

The institutions involved were the American-supported Yenching university, the American-Catholic Fujen university, and the Chinese French university.

The schools feared their stand for academic freedom might invite the closing of all foreign educational institutions in the North China area.

SHOWERS AGAIN

Weatherman Sticks to Prediction Rain's In Offing.

The weatherman was persistent today in predicting showers again, just as he did yesterday, with warmer weather to follow the rain.

His yesterday's forecast, however, went awry as the skies remained clear and the mercury went down to a shivery 43 degrees last night. At noon today it was 72.

The prediction is for local showers possibly tonight or Wednesday, followed by slightly warmer weather Wednesday.

29 SUMMONED IN WILL CASE

Suit to Set Aside Bequests of Farmer Goes Into Second Day.

With 29 witnesses subpoenaed to testify before the jury, trial of a suit contesting the will of the late Willis Egner of Bloominggrove township moved into the second day this morning. Court attaches said the case probably would not go to the jury before Wednesday.

In the action, a sister and nieces and nephews of Mr. Egner seek to have the will set aside on the grounds that he was not mentally responsible when the will was drawn up, a few months before his suicide death last September.

A brother, B. W. Egner, of near Greenwich, was named chief beneficiary of the estate which consists largely of two farms in Bloominggrove township, valued at approximately $5,000. The brother was named defendant in the suit after other relatives of Mr. Egner were left only $1 each under provision of the will.

YOUTH BOUND TO GRAND JURY IN TRAFFIC DEATH

'I Don't Know What to Say,' He Tells Judge When Accusation's Read.

Entering a plea of guilty and waiving preliminary examination when arraigned in municipal court today on a charge of first degree manslaughter in the traffic death Saturday of Miss Ada Kovachy, Cleveland, Richard Strohminger, 18, 202 Newman street, was bound over to the Richland county grand jury.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch fixed bond at $2,000. Unable to make the bond, Strohminger was returned to the county jail where he has been held since his arrest Saturday night.

Companion Draws Fine.

One of his companions in the car at the time of the collision which killed the Cleveland woman and injured three other persons, Paul Hieneking, 19, of 218 Newman street, pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and was fined $10 and costs. The other member of the party, Emmett Null, no address, was released by police after they had taken his statement.

Appearing before the court without counsel this morning, Strohminger, asked for a plea when the charge was read, said "I don't know what to say."

The court explained to the youth that the case would have to be carried to another court and asked him if he desired to consult anyone before entering a plea.

Strohminger requested that he be allowed to talk to his mother who sat in the crowded courtroom.

After a five-minute conference, Lieut. Bruce Friday, who investigated the accident and filed the charges against the youth, announced the plea to the court.

Brought In By Parents.

Strohminger was arrested at police headquarters Saturday, when his parents brought him to the station four hours after the crash from which police said he had fled.

The accident occurred on Lexington avenue at 3:30 p. m. Saturday when the driver attempted to pass a truck and collided head-on with a car travelling in the opposite direction.

Miss Kovachy, Cleveland, Cuyahoga county juvenile probation officer, and sister of Municipal Judge Julius M. Kovachy, died in the General hospital of a skull fracture three hours after the accident.

Miss Kovachy's three sisters, Miss Mary Kovachy, Miss Helen Kovachy and Mrs. Charlotte Turk all of Cleveland, all injured when pinned in the car, are still in the hospital. Their condition today was reported as "good." Treated for minor injuries sustained in the wreck was Edward Turk, son of Mrs. Turk who was riding in the front seat beside his mother who was driving.

Police Hunt Bodies of Youths After Boat Upsets.

GRANTSVILLE, W. Va.—(U.P.)—State police dragged the Little Kanawha river near here today for the bodies of four young men who drowned when a boat capsized. Four others swam the rail-swollen river to shore.

The victims were Claude McCune, 21; Tracy Allen, 21; John Bowers, 21, and Cecil Truman, 20, all of Calhoun county.

immediately for Fresno. Mrs. Rachel Dirlam, widowed mother of the two young Leland Stanford university students, who has been in California since the funeral of her husband, and her brother, Rufus Tracy, jr., of Salt Lake City, Utah, were among the relatives of the victims who were in Fresno awaiting the tragedy caravan. Sally Dirlam, 13, the only member left of Mrs. Dirlam's immediate family, was with her mother. She left Mansfield May 28.

The pack train reached the broken remnants of the plane near the summit of the 9,900-foot peak late yesterday. The party found that the two giant wings of the plane had been sheared off by the trees as the liner crashed against the rugged peak. They were lying, almost intact, a few feet apart.

About 300 feet farther on was the shattered fuselage, literally broken into bits by the impact. The tail assembly was still fairly complete.

Four sacks of mail were unbroken, but a fifth had burst and letters were scattered over the side of the peak. Eight bodies were on the ground, while the ninth, that of the stewardess, Miss Martha Wilson, was pinned in the twisted remains of the fuselage. Little remained of the bodies and identification will have to be made at Fresno from the clothing and personal effects, dispatches said.

Despite his exhaustion after his climb afoot up the rugged mountain and his return, young Collier led the advance rescue party and stood guard with them until the main group of the pack train arrived.

Rufus A. Tracy, father of Mrs. Dirlam, said today that members of the family were waiting word from her as soon as the bodies have been identified at Fresno.

U. S. Starts Probe Of Liner's Crash.

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper today appointed a special board to investigate the air line crash near Wawona, Calif., last March 1, and ordered the board to proceed at once to the scene.

Named to the board were:

Robert I. Hazen, chairman, senior air line inspector of the air commerce bureau; James A. Read, air line inspector; Robert D. Hoyt, aeronautical inspector, and Robert Kingsley, Los Angeles attorney and former associate editor of the Journal of Air Law, who will serve as advisory member.

Public hearings will be held on or about June 21, contingent upon the completion of field examinations. Site of the hearings will be announced later.

guage based on what we had been taught, and even athletic sports we engaged in in Greece," he said.

"We found in America everything we wanted and needed, and found Americanism to be Helienism, that which we founded. Having made up our minds that this is where we were going to live, it was quite natural that we would take part in everything American. For that reason we formed this organization, the Ahepa, for the purpose of becoming better acquainted with ourselves. We believe that we really are Americans in thought, spirit and attitude."

Chebithes said that the real American is the man who believes in the ideals of Americanism even though he is not an American citizen, and that the foundation of American citizenship is for each person to know and mind his own business, and to let the other fellow alone.

"Citizenship, however, is the backbone of the country," he concluded.

The toastmaster for the dinner was John Pole, the newest member of the Mansfield chapter. He introduced various guests and members of the order who gave short talks.

An address of welcome was given by Mayor Claude M. Hunter. George Loucas, Wierton, W. Va., 11th district governor, thanked the city officials for the hospitality shown the visitors. He explained the purposes of the Ahepa lodge. Short talks also were given by George Leiber, district secretary of the Sons of Pereclese; W. L. Miller, superintendent of public schools; Gus Zarnus, former football star at Ohio State university, and a 1937 All-American, and Miss Marina Gregory of Springfield, district governor of the Daughters of Penelope.

Others introduced were Paul Williams, secretary of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce; John Peters of Steubenville, convention chairman; Tracy Styert, service-safety director; Mayor Lloyd M. Bell of Mt. Vernon; Police Chief Laural McDonald of Mt. Vernon; Clyde E. Bates, Knox county sheriff; Atty. Charles Chew of Mansfield, and Mr. and Mrs Leo Lamberson of South Bend, Ind., past governor of District No. 12, and district governor of the Daughter of Penelope, respectively, and other present and past district and national officers.

The banquet opened with the singing of "America," and was brought to a close with a short talk by James Georgopulos, president of the Goodwill Chapter No. 303 of Mansfield. During the dinner music and entertainment was furnished by the "Accordionettes" of Smart's studio, and students of the Marguerite Speas studio of dancing. Following the dinner dancing was held with music furnished by an orchestra from Smart's studio.

Preceding the banquet, officers for the year of the auxiliary, the Daughters of Penelope, were elected. They are Miss Marina Gregory, Springfield, district governor; Miss Betty Chukas, Akron, lieutenant governor; Miss Mary Karres, Columbus, secretary-treasurer, and Miss Georgia Andrews, Columbus, marshall.

FINDS TEETH, TONSIL DEFECTS CHIEF AILMENTS OF NEW PUPILS

Teeth and tonsils defects are the chief ailments of more than 400 hundred children in Richland county who will enter school next fall for the first time.

This was shown today in figures compiled by Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, on the completion of the pre-school clinics conducted for the past four weeks under the supervision of the health department.

Of the 407 children of pre-school age in Mansfield and other parts of the county who were examined at the clinics, 227 or 55 per cent were found to be suffering from dental defects, Dr. Rehder said, while 10.5 per cent or 43 were found to have bad tonsils.

Dr. Rehder fould that 52 per cent of the children examined from the county had not been vaccinated for smallpox while the city showed 66 per cent had been vaccinated, due chiefly to the mandatory order of the board of education which requires all children to be immunized before entering Mansfield schools.

He explained however, that while 78 per cent examined from the county were not immunized against diphtheria, the city figures showed 87 per cent not immunized against it.

The figures revealed that 14 per cent had nasal obstructions; 12 per cent had defective vision and that five per cent suffered from malnutrition. Of those examined, representing all school districts in the county and city, 15 children in the county had defects corrected while 17 in the city had had corrections.

The clinics were conducted with the assistance of the Mansfield council of the Parent-Teachers' association which assisted in rounding up next year's new pupils, the Girl Scouts, and Mansfield dentists who donated their time and services in examining children's teeth, Dr. Rehder said.

CHECKS BIDS ON WATER BONDS

Board of Control Goes Over Proposals Submitted on $64,000 Issue.

The city board of control today was studying the bids of 14 financial firms submitted on a $64,000 waterworks mortgage revenue bond issue which is to finance the major portion of the $75,000 Woodland water improvement.

The bids were opened yesterday afternoon by the board which consists of Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Tracy Styert.

Styert said the contract for the bonds probably will not be awarded for another week because of a legal opinion which must be obtained from Squire, Sanders and Dempsey, Cleveland bond authority, and the matter of appointing a trustee for the term of the bond issue.

It has been estimated that the combined cost of the two will be approximately $1,000, around which numerous bids hinge. Some of the firms entered bids on the condition that the city pay the cost, while others have agreed to meet the expense, which accounted in various rates of interest that ranged from 1¾ per cent to 2½ per cent and premiums from $7 to $649.60.

Several firms submitted alternate bids. Two of three Mansfield banks, the Mansfield Savings and Trust National bank, and the Richland Trust company, submitted unconditional proposals. The other Mansfield concern to bid was the Farmers Savings and Trust company.

O. S. R. FUGITIVE HELD IN INDIANA

One of Four Who Fled From Camp Captured; Escape of Two Others Thwarted.

Reformatory guards left this morning for Muncie, Ind. to bring back a fugitive held by authorities there who escaped from the Grafton honor camp with three other inmates last Thursday.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said the fugitive was Lawrence Chapman, 20, who was arrested by Indiana authorities yesterday in an automobile stolen at Dayton.

Chapman was received at the institution Oct. 23, 1937 from Cuyahoga county and was under sentence from one to 20 years for auto theft. He was one of four who fled from the camp June 9. The other three inmates are still at large.

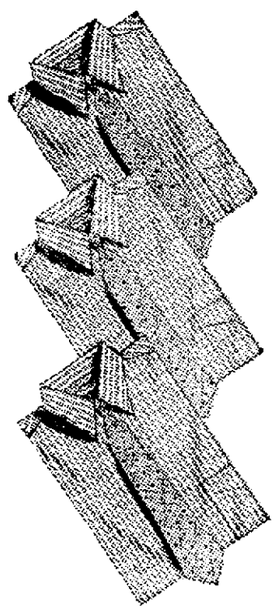

The plans of two other inmates to escape from the institution's farm were thwarted yesterday. The two were Claude Brandeberg, 19, Hamilton county, and Sylvester Slane, 23, of Franklin county.

Their escape attempt occurred yesterday afternoon while they were hoeing corn on the farm some distance from the reformatory.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

LAST week my neighbor, who had fields of alsike, red clover and a sprinkling of timothy, mowed great quantities of it down. I saw the mower cut its swath five to six feet wide. The fresh-cut stalks of grass, when cut, would dance a second on the cutter bar and then fall backward, half inclined when the crop was extra heavy, when light, the swath lay flat upon the stubble.

It is pleasant on an early spring morning to mow the fragrant, thick, fresh grass. The air is cool, the flies do not yet bother the moving team, the humble bees have no heavy stinging brood to harass the man upon the springy seat. The honey bees make musical humming among the white clover heads, the painted butterflies sail here and there across the meadow.

But not all is well. The meadow lark is hidden somewhere just before the cruel cutting knives and when it passes through the matted, fallen grass the mother lark emerges with bleeding wing or severed leg, while beneath, the little fledglings hide in fear, to starve before the day is past. The pretty mottled quail flies up before the team, but her nest of sixteen or eighteen pure white eggs lies broken on the ground. The sparrows' homes meet a similar fate.

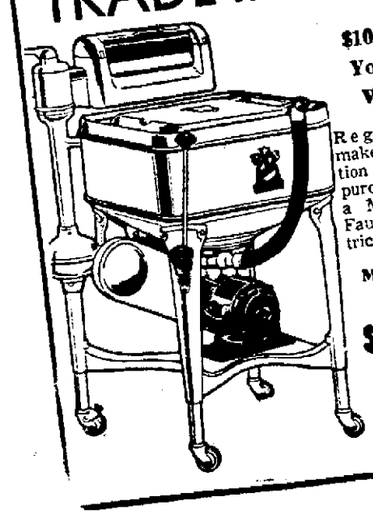

Not everything was well with the farmer either. For when many of them had their fields raked in loose windrows, ready for the loader, heavy clouds banked in the west. Thunder followed, and soon the rain began to fall upon the fresh-cured hay. Thousands of tons lay drenched upon the well-soaked fields.

Instead of fine green color it is bleached until it looks as light as straw. The quality is gone, and stock eat it very tardily.

He gambled with the weather, and he lost. This week he will cut some more and take his chance, until the entire crop is harvested.

When I see a mow of hay tucked snugly in the barn, I often stop to count the cost in life and suffering, the loss in labor and in bank account, the anxiety, the sweat it stands for. The farmer's life is not all a pleasant path of roses.

Suggestion: Evidence of eccentricity is detrimental to a youthful job-seeker. Better wear garters and get yourself a hat.

After all, it seems rather ridiculous that 125,000,000 Americans don't know what to do about a few hare-brained communist and fascist agitators.

Now that "The Birth of a Baby" has won more or less screen acceptance the potentialities of open house at maternity hospitals appear to have been vastly expanded.

When Trained Men Combat Crime.

THE recently solved Florida kidnaping case was a convincing demonstration of fine service that can be rendered by trained men of the Federal Bureau of Investigation working in co-operation with local authorities.

It also shows the fallacy of the idea of cutting down the G-men force as an economy measure, which came near going through a few weeks ago.

Attorney General Cummings telegraphed J. Edgar Hoover that the outcome of the Cash kidnaping case was "a striking illustration of what can be accomplished through co-operation of federal and local authorities, with the whole-hearted assistance of the public."

At some future time it will probably be recognized as a duty of the state to develop a force of trained operatives, along FBI lines, for co-operation with municipal and county law enforcement agencies in the solution of major crimes which are now permitted to be recorded as unsolved mysteries.

Safety Movement Goes Forward.

A STRIKING and unusual experiment in the interest of safety will be undertaken at New York university, beginning July 1. A national center of safety education will be established, under a special grant of funds from the national conservation bureau of the Association of Casualty and Surety Executives, and will become part of the university's division of general education.

According to announcement, the new project, which is the first of its kind in this country, will provide a comprehensive program of information, instruction and research in matters connected with accident control. As part of the program, a maximum of eighteen research fellowships in safety education, with stipends ranging from $400 to $1,200, will be offered for graduate students enrolled in the School of Education during the 1938-39 academic year.

Teaching Advantages of Thrift.

THREE savings banks in Buffalo, N. Y., have united to sponsor a newspaper advertising campaign stressing children's savings accounts. The ads won such prompt and general approval that the sponsors have agreed to continue the program indefinitely.

During the first thirteen weeks of the campaign the advertising dealt with the wisdom of saving and teaching children to start accounts while they are young. The second series will be more specific, taking up separate ideas and giving concrete illustrations of what thrift and regular savings may mean to a growing child and to his future.

These ads were first tried because there seemed to be a need to sell the savings idea again. The bank losses of the winter of 1932-33 led some people to the unwise conclusion that thrift was futile and spending what you had when you had it was the only sure way to enjoy your money.

That is an extreme view, and just as harmful to the individual and to society as its opposite, the miserly hoarding of money for its own sake.

People are learning again that methodical thrift, saving moderately but regularly in order to have something desirable later on—a home, an education, travel—is an essential part of well-handled personal finance. Sensible saving and sensible spending are both needed, for character as well as for comfort and security.

Father's Day Not Proclaimed.

THE fact that there are now more special "days" and "weeks" than there are days and weeks in the year may account for the attitude of Governor Cochran, of Nebraska, in declining to issue an official proclamation of June 19 as Father's day.

"It is too bad that the proclamation has sunk to a low level by too general use," said the governor, "but I do indorse most heartily the idea of Father's day."

It seems that present efforts to popularize Father's day is an afterthought of Mother's day. One sure thing is that Father has had little voice in the matter and that while he may appear to "be happy about the whole thing" he is rather embarrassed by it—possibly preferring the inattention to which he is accustomed during the other 364 days of the year.

Fear of Poverty.

A CURIOUS CASE is that of a 60-year-old man in Waukegan, Mich. He was found apparently suffering from semi-starvation and taken to a hospital to be coddled and fed into health again. When the doctors started examining him, they found he was wearing three suits of underwear, apparently for extra warmth to make up for the lack of food. Pinned to one of those suits were $900 in bills.

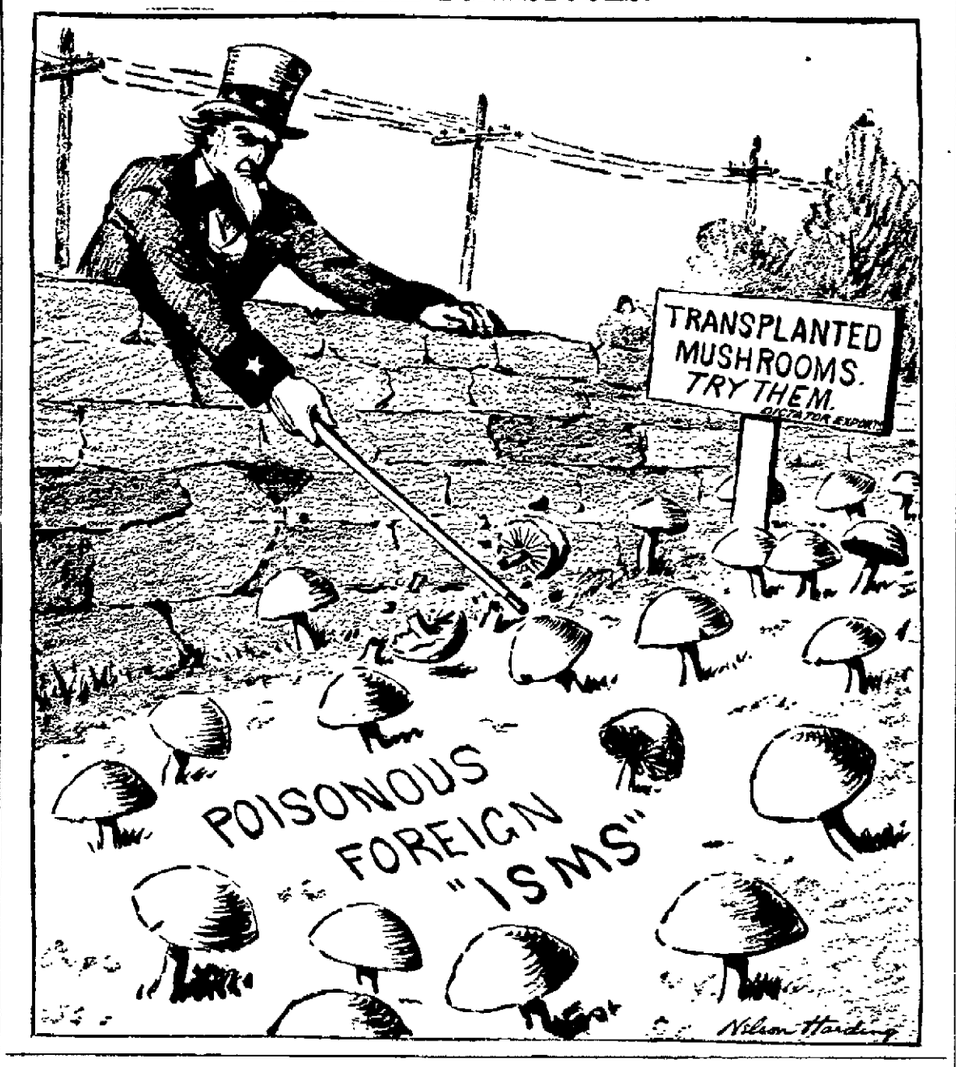

So he was starving not from necessity, but from fear of starvation. Fear of helpless poverty still does strange things to people, even in a time of almost universal public relief. Here was the extreme opposite of the "chiseler."

This type is no longer so common as it has been in previous depressions. Most people are coming to rely on a friendly city, state or federal government as their last line of economic defense. But the old individualism dies hard, and often poor men struggle as much as millionaires, to preserve it.

An early-morning radio comic suggests starting the day with a hearty laugh—which the neighbors would probably interpret as justifying a lunacy inquest.

"Promises are eggs," says a writer—probably impressed by the ease with which they are broken. Or maybe its only a yolk.

"THEY'RE TOADSTOOLS!"

Why Congress Wants to Adjourn

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Every time the moment approaches for congress to adjourn the cry is raised that the lawmakers' duty is to quit just as soon as possible in order to get the agony over and give business a chance to recuperate.

The senators and representatives join in this clamor.

One might think that they would hate to admit that the country must continue in a state of pessimistic uncertainty as long as they linger in Washington.

It is understandable that the end of a legislative session comes as a relief to the president. Congress is a worry to him, jabbering on Capitol Hill, finding fault with his policies and quibbling as to the merits of his recommendations.

But the congressmen themselves? Why shouldn't they like it?

FEAR GRIPS THEM

Well, for one thing, in a campaign year, like this one, all the representatives and the one-third of the senators whose seats are at stake, want to get home in a hurry, to attend to being renominated and re-elected.

Moreover, a goodly number of them are glad to escape from the capital to avoid having to vote on questions which they are none too sure how their constituents want them to vote. If such questions can be shelved until next session at least it's a respite.

A politician's life, like a policeman's, after all is not an easy one.

SOME LIVE IN CAPITAL.

By the way—

Some senators and representatives become so addicted to Washington and its suburbs that I wouldn't think their home folk any longer would consider them local residents.

I know several western senators who have permanent homes in the capital or estates in nearby Virginia or Maryland. Hereabouts, in effect, is where they live. Yet they speak of bailiwicks 1,000 miles or so removed from here. How can such a statesman miss losing touch with his original neighborhood's interests?

Quite awhile ago, returning from a western trip, I wanted to stop off for an interview with a representative from western Pennsylvania. Congress was in recess and I took it for granted that I should find him in the town he nominally hails from.

Getting off there, I had the darnedest time locating his residence. Finally I inquired at the police station. The police were puzzled, too, but ultimately they directed me to his address.

I applied there. "Why, yes," said the lady who answered the doorbell, "he keeps a room here, but he lives in Washington."

How he hung, politically, onto that congressional district, is a mystery to me, but he did it—and was a pretty prominent representative. He never was beaten, either; he died in office—died in Washington.

WHERE DO YOURS LIVE?

Home folk, consider:

Do your senators and representative live where you live? Or do they live in Washington or Virginia or Maryland?

Parenthetically:

Under the constitution, a representative does not have to live in the district he represents. His district can hire him from elsewhere. It never is done in practice, but a non-resident theoretically is eligible. A senator, however, must be from the state he speaks for. He is, constitutionally, a state's ambassador.

Is Mother a Girl's Best Friend?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

IS MOTHER a girl's best friend? Wilma believes she is and, without a dissenting vote, All Mothers' Incorporated, will agree with her.

But you might be surprised if you took a straw vote from the rest of the girls. However, let's give Wilma her say first.

Dear Miss Robinson:

Why do you so frequently criticize mothers? It is very hard to understand, particularly when you say that you are a mother yourself. Everybody knows that every mother's life is a sacrifice.

Why, when children are grown, do they forget the loving service? Why don't they turn to mother for guidance as they did when they were little? Think how happy it would make her. Surely she still knows the world better than they do, for has she not had a much longer experience?

Let us make mother happy while we can. She may leave us some day.

WILMA,
A Grown Daughter.

That's a nice letter. It will bring a lump into many a throat and a tear into many an eye, and I hope it makes some of our ungrateful sons and daughters sit down and write a note to the little old lady at home who gave them years of gentle, unselfish service.

But I still refuse to take back a word I've said; and I still won't admit that mother is necessarily a girl's best friend.

She can be. She may be. She sometimes is. But she can't assume that position merely by marrying papa and giving birth to little sister.

IF MOTHERS WISH TO RANK AS AUTHORITIES THEY MUST QUALIFY LIKE ANY OTHER CLASS OF CITIZENS.

A MOTHER MUST BE MORE THAN A MA IF SHE IS TO BE HER CHILD'S BEST FRIEND.

SHE MUST BE A HAPPY, HEALTHY, HUSTLING, HUMAN BEING, AND HEP TO HER UNIVERSE.

AND SHE MUST, RIGHT AT THE START, CAN THE CLASSICAL IDEA THAT "EVERY MOTHER'S LIFE IS A SACRIFICE."

Any mother who considers maternity a sacrifice shouldn't be a mama. Motherhood is the beautiful and joyous adventure on which any woman can embark. It's a woman's biggest and proudest opportunity. It requires work and risk and suffering and sacrifice—but so does any other big job.

Any mother who tackles her job in the right spirit gets bigger rewards out of it than any other woman worker on earth. But she has to tackle it. She can't just loaf around and whine about how good she is, and expect her children to agree with her. Mothers must MAKE GOOD in 1938, like any other workers.

As for mother love being "the most beautiful thing on earth," it is exactly as big and as beautiful, as wise and reliable as Mother is herself. The softness of a mother's heart is no guarantee for the shrewdness of a mother's brain. If a mother doesn't keep current; if she doesn't inform herself about her world and its conditions she is as unreliable a guide for her child as the most stupid stranger. She can't even understand her own child without proper study.

"MOTHER INTUITION" LISTENS LOVELY, BUT DOESN'T MEAN A THING.

A MOTHER CAN'T KNOW HOW TO RUN HER JOB BY INTUITION, ANY MORE THAN A PLUMBER OR A CHEMIST OR AN ENGINEER.

And the 20th Century youngster knows it!

Congress Dominated By Politics

Well-Informed Writer Sees Final Legislation Being Shaped to Add to Power of Roosevelt.

POLITICS, not statesmanship, is dominating the final days of this session of congress, with President Roosevelt holding the whip hand over senate and house to such extent as to bar possibility of any such constructive and fear-dispelling legislation as is essential to such co-operation of industry, labor and government to quick recovery.

No keener analysis of the present national situation has appeared than that written by well-informed and long-experienced Arthur Krock, Washington correspondent of the New York Times, who sees this session of congress coming to a close "in a political atmosphere more intense than at any time during the New Deal," with "politics fully established as the test of everything now being done in Washington."

Says Krock, in an article in Sunday's Times: "The administration is proceeding frankly to 'purge' from the next congress every independent Democrat it can, and especially every Democrat who actively opposed the 1937 Supreme Court enlargement measure. Here and there—as in Missouri—state political combinations have made it impossible to deny renomination to an independent Democrat. But wherever an opportunity is seen by the White House "elimination committee," although against the judgment of National Chairman Farley, the attempt is to be made.

EVIDENCING the fear of administration displeasure that makes a number of senators and congressmen submissive to the Roosevelt demands, Krock says:

"Congress, with the exception of a few measures, is playing politics with the legislation it hopes to whip finally into shape by the middle of the week. Most of the Democratic senators are yielding to the president on every call for new power, having in mind their State situations and the mood of the White House to punish independence."

"The Republican minority is playing politics also, thundering much in the index but sliding to safety on such measures as the pump-priming bill. . . .

"Entering into the spirit of the capital, certain industrial elements are playing politics, too. They attempted for days to enforce upon the South in seven years the same wage-scale to be imposed on Northern industrial areas which are more than a generation ahead economically, the result of the War of States and other causes. This effort did not arise from a welfare spirit in behalf of sweated labor so much as from a wish to gain an unfair advantage over competing Southern industries.

"Politics, too, animated the drafting by Congress of the O'Mahoney resolution to investigate monopolies and concentrations of wealth and power."

REFERRING to the re-nomination of Democratic Senator Gillette, of Iowa, in the face of administration opposition, Krock comments:

"The general belief, when the news from Iowa arrived Tuesday morning, was that the setback put moderation in the hearts of Administration politicians and vertebrae in the backbones of Democratic Senators. But the contrary was the case, at least temporarily.

"The President apparently was heeding those counselors who told him that Mr. Gillette would have been defeated if Mr. Roosevelt had openly, instead of privately, opposed him. This indication of greater aggression on the President's part frightened many Senators, even some who will not run again for two or four years.

"The prospect at this writing is that, by adjournment day, with unrestricted billions for pump-priming in his hands, a Labor Standards Bill after years of effort, two anti-monopoly inquiries afoot, a friendly committee to investigate TVA, and Congressional independence again checked, the President will feel he has done very well at this session. Politically very well, that is. For nothing has been done to promote recovery, either by legislation or by a show of administrative spirit to "let the cattle put on fat," as Mr. Garner recommended.

"With only a few days remaining, the railroads have been left to their fate, which will mean early bankruptcy for several, in informed opinion. The unilateral Wagner Labor act remains untouched, and, since the courts have completely sustained the legality of its one-sidedness, daily rulings are working havoc with industries. An inquiry impends which may further frighten capital and freeze investment. Politics alone has been triumphant in one of the most discouraging sessions of recent history."

SUMMING up the situation, Mr. Krock sees little hope for substantial recovery through governmental co-operation, except from a changed personnel in congress that can be brought about in November elections.

"The remedy is simple," he says, "though it must wait. If the American people elect to congress in November enough legislators who have shown independence, and enough who promise to show it, the change in moral climate, the resumption of practical legislative aid to recovery, will be instant. A Republican house gain of fifty seats or more, a Republican senate victory or so, and the triumph of conspicuous Democrats marked for the "purge" are all that is required."

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

ARE we going uphill now? Men say they are beginning to feel the trend. The government, for one thing, is beginning to let contracts under its spend-lend plan. But, enormous as government expenditures are, they are a mere drop in the bucket to what business itself spends when it is under way. Tens of thousands of plants pouring forth their wealth into the channels of trade are an ocean to the government's river.

As a matter of fact, the federal government finds it difficult to spend large sums on projects quickly. If the government can pour 100 million dollars monthly into the trade channels through construction projects it will be doing well. Engineer-observers do not believe that will be done—at least, this year.

DIRECT RELIEF

Direct relief is another matter. Hundreds of millions could be spent on that.

Before all this ends, congress will have to establish a department of public welfare, administered by a cabinet officer and organized as well as the army is organized. As it is, we waste millions through ineffective local administration, thousands of people suffer from malnutrition and other thousands are mistreated or humiliated.

The thousands who are mistreated or humiliated usually are the most deserving. One of the most inexplicable traits of human nature is to blame the man and the family of the man who is down on his luck (although the fault may not be his). If such a man is sensitive, he will come for aid only as a last resort. Further, he will be timid, he will cringe and lose faith in himself, and in all the world.

The great federal government itself ought to sweep aside criticism and be the protector of this man, put him on his feet and save him and his family for the nation. They are the best citizens, the most eager when given a helping hand, and good risks once they are on their feet.

STEEL

Steel possibly will be the barometer (as usual) of any upturn. Once steel begins to creep up from its present low production marks, renewed vigor will become manifest in the business world.

The government program alone will not be sufficient to put steel into the black. Steel depends on ten thousand and one demands. But the government program may be the primer. It will begin to trickle soon.

MONEY AWAITS

Money in huge sums awaits investment. Every securities' issue of a large corporation can be sold several times over these days.

There never previously in the world's history was such an abundance of cheap money. It could expand into a whirlwind inflation. Instead, it seems to be under control, going into low-return but well-backed securities.

But can the control be strong enough to prevent inflation in the end? Who can say?

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

WHOLEHEARTED EFFORT: Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men. —Colossians 3:23.

Montreal Newspaper 160 Years Old

The Montreal Gazette recently observed its 160th anniversary. Americans are interested in the occasion for two reasons. One is the age and accomplishment of the Gazette, both deserving respect. The other is its origin.

Benjamin Franklin, who seems to have had a hand in practically everything useful and interesting in his day, was its founder. In 1778 he met in London a French printer who was publishing a paper in England. Franklin, like many other patriots then, hoped that the French Canadians could be induced to side with the Americans against Great Britain. He persuaded the young printer to come to this country and obtain a grant from congress to publish a paper in Montreal. It all worked out as planned, except that the Canadians did not join with the Americans.

The first paper was called the Literary and Commercial Gazette. It was almost newsless and very small. But it grew as Canada grew. The little wooden press which had been brought from England was replaced by better equipment and finally by the complicated machinery required for a great newspaper in the present time.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Chances are Joy Hodges will go down in theatrical history as the kid in her first Broadway show who told George M. Cohan not to be nervous on an opening night!

"He's such a dear," says Joy, "and I thought he seemed sort o' jittery. So I just patted him on the shoulder and said: 'Don't worry, Mr. Cohan, you'll be all right as soon as the curtain goes up.' What's wrong with that?"

Not a thing wrong, Joy, my sweet. In fact it quite probably is one of the very nicest gestures Mr. Broadway, himself, ever experienced. But, you see, Joy, it was about George M's thousandth time to face Gotham across the footlights, and it was your first. That makes it a little unusual. But then, Joy, you're an unusual girl!

Fact of the matter is that Joy Hodges, tall, dark 'n' beautiful, has what stacks up as one of the fascinating stories of the play season just ended. It renews the faith of youth in the future. And that's pretty important. Right now.

Folks were just about beginning to believe that there really wasn't any Santa Claus around Times Square, and that the Cinderella legend was only that and nothing more. The kids had pretty nearly quit trying—like the old-timers. Then along came Joy.

SHE'S a Des Moines, Iowa, girl, daughter of just a plain, good, American family. Dad works in the postoffice, and she has a brother who's doing all right. When she was a very little girl she sang little songs at church affairs. Later she became half of the "Bluebird Twins," and one of the home town's first baby radio stars.

She's always been a Happiness Girl, you see. She would be a "Bluebird Twin" and pick a name like Joy. It isn't the one her parents picked. That was Frances Eloise. She changed it because she used to be cuh-razy about Leatrice Joy. And because it sounded gay. Joy's an optimist.

When school days came, the kid was in dramatics, the glee club and all that sort of thing. During vacation she worked in the music department of the dime store, went on Chautauqua, did anything to put herself through school. Graduated, she sang her way into the movies via the dance band route. And her heart broken when her option lapsed.

She was all packed up to head east and start all over again, when Bing Crosby asked her to sing at a benefit for a sick pal. Of course she did. In the audience was Moss Hart. And a few days later he told George Kauffman that he had just the girl for their forthcoming satire "I'd Rather Be Right." George asked who. And Hart found he had forgotten her name!

There seemed no way of finding her, so, sorrowfully, Hart went to appraise another girl "discovered" by Kaufman and the musical dramatists Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart. Maybe you've guessed that the girl was Joy Hodges. And, of course, she got the job. Which was all that Hollywood wanted to know. Of the movie offers that came then she accepted one which starred her in "Merry-Go-Round of 1938," and romped through it before rehearsal time for the play.

Timely Editorial

Safer Vacations.

Timely is the warning of the National Safety Council as June ushers in another vacation season.

The program advocated by the council as the best preventive against a vacation which terminates in inconvenience, discomfort, tragedy or all three has as its keynote moderation in all things.

Be moderate in everything you do, it urges. Don't eat too much, or over exercise or drive too fast or too far. Get plenty of sleep. Have your car checked carefully before undertaking a long trip and drive it sensibly and with due regard for all the rules of safety. Remember that the water, however pleasurable for swimming or boating, is, after all, an unfriendly element. Don't go in bathing too soon after eating. Be sure the spot chosen for swimming is safe and stay out of deep water unless accompanied by another person. Don't try to get a whole season's sun-tan in a couple of afternoons.

In other words the Safety Council's advice may be summed up in four words—use ordinary common sense.—Columbus Dispatch.

Working With My Hands.

Working with my hands I find
Answers to old pain:
Shining plates and polishing

From a frock, these homely tasks
Many times have been
Solace in my helplessness

I have faced some problem, felt
Life too much for me:
As I worked at last I could

HERE'S A SCORE SHEET FOR NEW HOME BUILDERS

Lumber Dealers List Suggestions for Selection of Land for Residence Sites.

Because the home is the largest investment made during the life of the average individual, the selection of the land on which the home is built may be as important as the materials out of which it is made.

For this reason the Ohio Association of Retail Lumber dealers has prepared the following score sheet against which prospective builders may check proposed building sites. Announcement of the set of standards was made today by W. S. Ross, of the Home Materials company, and is timely in view of the increase in home building now getting under way throughout the state

While probably no plot of ground will score 100 per cent, the prospective builder should endeavor to secure a lot that will rank well in the following tests.

1—Street improvements, including paving, sidewalks, sewers, water mains, gas mains and electricity. The home builder should know if these are installed and available, also if they are fully paid for or constitute liens against the land.

2—Drainage. Low, wet lots are obviously less desirable.

3—Trees. For beauty and shade trees are desirable, but it is well to note if one or more must be removed to accommodate the proposed house.

4—Transportation. Kind, cost, frequency of service, and distance to walk.

5—Normal facilities, including schools, shopping center, churches, parks, recreation centers, etc.

6—Taxes.

7—Insurance rates and fire protection.

8—Public services, including police protection, garbage collection, snow removal, mail delivery and street lighting.

9—Living costs. Neighborhood standards vary radically.

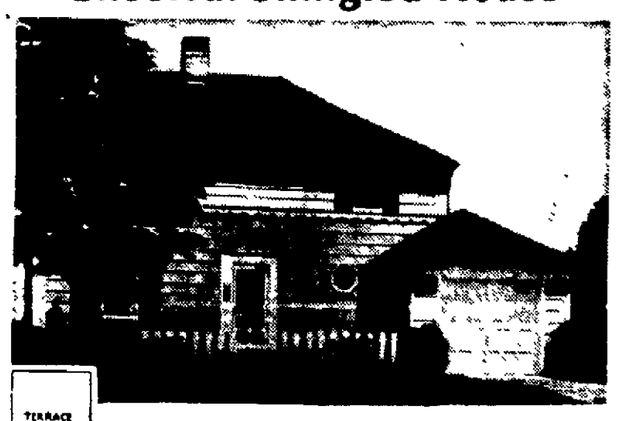

10—Neighborhood pride. The percentage of owner - occupied homes is frequently a desirable index.

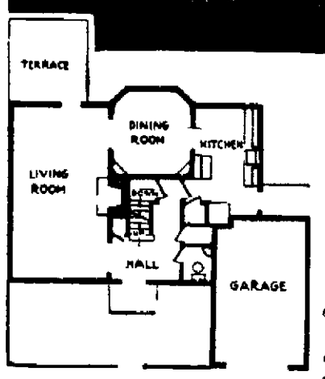

11—Restrictions. Most sub-divisions are restricted, and many cities and towns are zoned. The prospective builder, by examining the deed, frequently can determine whether or not the lot in question will become increasingly valuable or will deteriorate due to lack of restrictions.

Cheerful Shingled House

The scalloped molding, the octagonal window and the picket fence help give this frame house on Long Island a cheerful aspect. Both walls and roof are of shingles.

Inside the house, the corner cupboard, ample closets and other practical details which make or break a house are equally well designed.

The large living room opens onto a rear terrace, and the attractively shaped dining room boasts four windows. The downstairs lavatory is a desirable feature, and the garage is so built into the front of the house as to be both convenient and economical Upstairs are three bedrooms and a bath.

The house was built by Newell and Daniel, the plan chosen by The American Home, 444 Madison Ave, New York, N. Y.

Holds Less Than Half of Homes Have Bathtubs

Despite the fact that America is generally regarded as the land of the bathtub, only approximately 11,000,000 of the 25,200,000 dwelling units in the United States are equipped with bathtubs, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau, in calling attention to the vast potential volume of modernization work under Title I of the National Housing act.

That the total number of bathtubs in the United States is much smaller than has been generally supposed is indicated, the bureau says, by combining and extending the findings of the Real Property Inventory covering 64 representative cities with the results of the Farm Housing Survey which included 542,353 farms in 282 typical counties

There are a total of 13,046,699 dwelling units in cities and 12,158,277 in rural districts, according to the census

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"No, you have no choice," he assured her grimly. "But I don't think this is just the proper time and place to have it out. I would suggest that we try to eat together without flying at each other's throats. Then we'll go for a little drive where we can talk without being disturbed."

"You're very sure of yourself, aren't you?"

Clay Odell proved to be a very pleasant supper guest The little air of restraint that first hovered over the table vanished quickly under his unobtrusive efforts to keep conversation alive. He could be very entertaining when he liked and, on this occasion, he spared no effort Even Larry thawed perceptibly as she listened to the interesting topics he introduced, some of them personal and others general, all discussed in the dry, humorous manner that had intrigued her the first time she ever talked to him.

After the meal, Clay announced calmly:

"I'm going to run off with your child for a little while, Mrs. Layne All right?"

"I think it is a lovely evening for a ride," she agreed, to Larry's sudden discomfiture. "You'd better take a coat, dear"

"Good idea," Clay approved "Get your coat, Larry, and we'll walk over to where I left my car It isn't far and the exercise will be good for us"

Clay chose the road to Indian Spring and almost nothing was said until they reached that park It had a peculiarly deserted air the bandstand had been boarded over with the ending of the concert season. But one of the concession stands still was open and numerous cars were parked about.

"We may as well go the limit," Clay observed, allowing his roadster to drift into a secluded spot. "It isn't quite dark yet."

Larry huddled back in her corner of the seat and said nothing. Clay flipped away the cigarette he had been smoking and plunged bluntly into his story, much the same as he had told it to Mrs Layne earlier in the afternoon.

"That's about all I can tell you, Larry," he concluded quietly. "Except that my love for you has grown every day . . . you don't know. You can't know about that. It's been almost unbearable. Maybe I was a bit cowardly to let my uncle buy me into staying, though I never would if I had known about Griff. But, if I was cowardly, it was because I couldn't bear the thought of leaving here . . . leaving you. It seemed to me that, some day, you must understand . . . that a love like mine couldn't be wrong and that it couldn't go for nothing."

There was no response from Larry.

"Perhaps I should have forced you to see me before, Larry. But I couldn't very well, after what happened. I didn't blame you. But I realize that I've been an awful fool the way I've gone about things It's going to be different after this."

"How different?" Larry asked almost listlessly.

"That depends mostly on you, dear. If there is any such happiness in life as I've dreamed of you, I mean . . . then nobody shall ever stand in my way I don't care what happens Now that you understand if only you could believe me and in me if you could only tell me that I might go on loving you forever. Why, I wouldn't ask for anything more. If you'd just let me love you and be glad about it. Could you?"

"No," said a soft voice from the shadows.

"You . . . you mean that?"

"Of course I do Do you think any girl would ever agree to a one-sided arrangement like . . . like that?"

"Larry! Larry Layne! Do you mean . . ."

"I mean I'd never let any man love me like that, if I could help it. If I couldn't help it, it would be because I . . . because I . . ."

"Oh, my dear!" Clay said the words in a gentle wonder. "Then you did care a little. You do care . . ." He caught at her arm and would have drawn her close, but her hand restrained him

"Wait," she told him quietly "There is something I must tell you. I've got to be honest. The first time you told me . . . that. I never expect to be so happy again I couldn't believe it, but I wanted to. "Yes," she admitted with the candor of a child, "I loved you, too."

"Larry, darling!"

"But when the things happened that did happen," she went on in a low voice. "I was so hurt. Yes, I was. I thought I'd die. But I was angry, too. You see, I didn't trust you and I didn't trust my heart . . . and all the time it was telling me I should. It's been so dreadful, Clay" There was a little catch in her voice

"I know, dear." He slipped an arm about her shoulders

"I thought I ought to tell you that," Larry said slowly "Because, maybe, you'd think you couldn't trust me . . . if you did keep on loving me."

"Oh, you blessed little simpleton! Why didn't I know?"

"You have been pretty . . . blind," she whispered Her head went down suddenly against his shoulder. It stayed there during a long silence. A silence broken finally by Clay, as he bent his head low for his cheek to brush the waves of Larry's brown hair.

"The misunderstandings are over forever, dear," he said "From now on, we work out our lives and love in our own way Trust me?"

'For always, Clay Oh, it is for always' Tell me so!"

"Always and a day, Larry Layne. And we're not going to waste a minute of the days that are coming to us I can do anything now I can even go home and tell your mother about this. Shes' a trump. And she favors early marriages for girls She told me so"

"Don't be ridiculous! That's a long way off." It was said with a tremulous little laugh. It seemed to Larry that it was the first time she had really laughed in years.

"That's what you think," Clay retorted, turning on the ignition "You'll be surprised. Do you know," he continued, backing his car in a sweeping circle, "that you've done a lot for three hearts tonight?"

"Three?'

"Yes, I didn't tell you that Uncle Romulus had a sort of 'spell' with his not long ago I think it scared him pretty badly. He was due for another one tonight, or the first time I saw him"

"Oh, you must be nice to him!" Larry exclaimed softly "Really you must. I feel sorry for him, I do! I'm sorry for everybody that isn't as happy as I am Some day I'm going to make him like me."

"There's a lot of things he's going to like, that he doesn't know about yet. One of the first . . ." Clay broke off with a chuckle. "Did you recognize that car coming in here just now?"

"No, I didn't!" There was a little note of alarm in Larry's voice. "Who was it?"

"Your old friend General Sherman and my filing clerk Maybe I should have made it five hearts What do you think?"

Clay Odell seemed in an unusually thoughtful mood on the way back to town and Larry found herself wondering if he already was speculating about their new-found happiness in relation to his work at the mill. She had been trying to banish a little worry about the same thing, but it persisted in bobbing up in the back of her mind

"Clay," she ventured diffidently, "are you worried about . . . Mr Wardlaw?"

"Worried? Of course not, dear I'm not bothered about anything in the world I'll admit I was thinking a little about the old boy, just what was the best way to break the news He's had his way about things so long he may be difficult. Now, he's going to find that C. M. Odell can be the same way. I'm not going to row with him. He can take it or leave it."

"I hope he won't make trouble for you," Larry sighed.

"He can't. I'll show him a contract works both ways."

"You'll have to encounter Mums, first. What's she going to say?"

"She'll say, Bless you, my darlings" We had it all fixed up before you came home. She quite likes the idea of having me in the family"

"I didn't suppose anybody could be so sure of themselves as you are. Clay, have you noticed how hazy it is in the streets? Look at that corner light"

"Smoke Must be that somebody is burning day leaves on Sunday."

"I smell it, now," Larry said, said. "It's getting thicker and it doesn't smell like leaves . . . more like old rags Maybe there's a fire somewhere"

"I believe you're right," Clay agreed. He sniffed at the air. "The streets look funny to me, too . . . sort of deserted I'll bet you the town turns out when there's a fire."

"Oh, they do Everybody Griff belongs to one of the vounteer companies He always has a fit when the bell rings I hope it isn't our house"

"It isn't," Clay assured her "You could see the excitement from here. Larry, do you mind if I take a turn down past the mill just to ease my conscience?"

"Of course not I'd like to see where it is Hurry"

As they neared the neighborhood of the mill, the murk thickened perceptibly.

Boastful Killer Goes To Chair As Slayer of Widow

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, PA.—(INS)—Stolid and silent, Wendell Forrest Bowers, 20-year-old slayer of Mrs. Wilma V. Carpenter, pretty Montgomery county widow, maintained his boast today that "my chin is up; I can take it," as he went to his death in Pennsylvania's 23-year-old electric chair—its 267th victim.

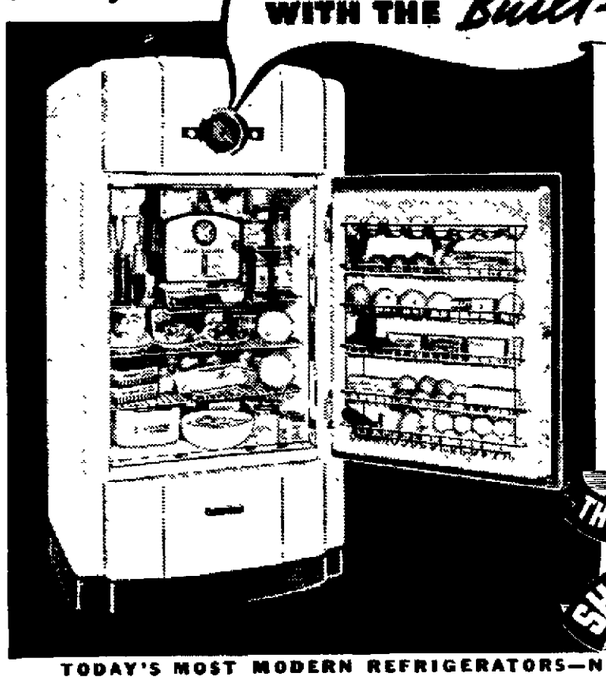

Bowers was placed in the chair at 12:32 a. m., the first and only contact following one minute later. He was pronounced dead by Dr. W. J. Schwartz, prison physician, at 12:35½ a. m.

Ten days out of the Huntington State Industrial school, the "bad boy of Ambler, Pa," gained access to the Carpenter home at Camp Hill. A gun fastened to his waist, cowboy fashion, he helped himself to some food and was calmly reading a magazine when Mrs. Carpenter and Mary Griffin, her companion, returned Bowers first demanded money, then suddenly shot Mrs. Carpenter. He hit Miss Griffin and knocked her unconscious.

REFRIGERATORS RIVAL MODERN FILING SYSTEM

Shelving Efficiency of 1938 Units Bring New Order in Storage of Foodstuffs.

The high type of efficiency which is the proud boast of American industry as presided over by expertly trained executives is now possible for the woman whose activities are centered in the kitchen of the family home.

It is the expertly planned new automatic refrigerator of 1938 with its carefully worked out storage space for a dozen different varieties of foods that make this possible. Comparison between the type of food storage made possible by the new refrigerators with the efficient filing systems in use in modern offices and the orderly placement of materials in industry, that needed things may be had with a minimum of effort, illuminates the point beautifully.

By virtue of the manner in which the refrigeration industry has worked out the shelving arrangements, the special drawers, the freezing compartments, and because it has made removable shelves and trays and baskets possible, the industry this year contributes an unusual high quality of labor-saving equipment to the home.

Inspiration for this carefully worked out efficiency of the modern refrigerator came first of course from the highly trained executives of the industry, who applied their own genius for orderliness to the product for which they are responsible.

Based on Surveys.

In many instances, before finally approving plans for the new models, they ordered nationwide surveys of what the housewife most wanted in the way of a well organized automatic refrigerator, and they actually sent armies of men and women around to the front doors of individual homes to interview housewives specially on the subject of food storage.

Thus they have been able to produce new automatic refrigerators for the current year which reduce the amount of effort a woman has to expend in the kitchen by providing her with a filing cabinet for the materials with which she works, the while that filing cabinet is endowed with the ability to keep perishables safely over a long period of time.

The wide variety of shelving arrangements available among the new 1938 refrigerators is the best illustration of this point. In most of the new refrigerators all shelves are removable and adjustable, making it possible for the housewife to set up as many as a dozen or more different shelving arrangements in one and the same refrigerator, in accordance with the changing needs of her food supply.

Basket Shelves.

Some of the manufacturers have provided their new models with shelves within shelves which may be compared to a square basket arrangement. These shelves within shelves, designed to carry the foods most used by the housewife in preparing meals are so arranged that they may be lifted completely out of the refrigerator with all of their contents and carried to the kitchen table where the work of preparing meals gets under way. Thus do the designers present housewives with an important step-saver.

There are many varieties of this removable shelf and tray arrangement in the new refrigerators. Practically all of them make possible the almost automatic preparation of frozen desserts. Simply put the beginnings in their proper dishes on the removable tray which is located in the correct spot in the box, and later, when the desserts are ready for serving, just move them out on the same cooled tray.

Behind Bars In Kidnap-Slaying

Pictured behind bars in the jail atop the skyscraper Dade county courthouse, at Miami, Fla., is Franklin Pierce McCall, after removal from FBI headquarters. Precautions were taken to prevent suicide of the 21-year-old truck driver whom G-men say confessed the kidnap-slaying of 5-year-old James Bailey Cash, jr.

STRESSES EASE

New Westinghouse Combines Convenience and Beauty.

More beauty and convenience features have been built into the Mansfield - made Westinghouse electric refrigerators for 1938 than ever before, with emphasis placed on ease of handling and more storage space, according to sales executives of the Ohio Public Service company, Westinghouse dealer in Mansfield.

The result of tests in over 100 home proving kitchens, the new Westinghouse models are equipped with those finer details that lighten the task of getting meals on hot days.

Housewives are pleased with the new and larger meat storage compartment, the zone control and finger tip dial for exact temperature selection, and the express tray lifts that make the exclusive Westinghouse eject-o-cube trays more efficient and convenient.

Since the electric refrigerator has become a fixed piece of furniture in the modern kitchen, Westinghouse designers have produced a stream-lined cabinet that adds beauty to any kitchen design.

IN NEW MODEL

Jim Brown's '38 Refrigerator Combines Latest Features.

All of the new features of the 1938 refrigerator, including the frozen food tray which is invaluable for summer use, are combined in the new model electric refrigerator that is on display at the Jim Brown store.

Not the least attractive feature is the service that goes with it, for there is a five year guarantee on defective parts. The new compartment for frozen foods has a lower temperature than the remainder of the box and frozen desserts may be kept for days in it, without endangering the fresh green vegetables that must be kept above freezing point in the vegetable compartment.

It is equipped with an illuminated temperature control dial which works as simply as a radio dial and has flexible sliding shelves which make possible any height for bottles and high containers.

STRESS ECONOMY AND QUIETNESS

Montgomery Ward Refrigerators Have 2 Cylinder Mechanism.

Quietness and economy are stressed by Montgomery Ward and company in its new 1938 electric refrigerator.

Every Montgomery Ward refrigerator has a quiet, sturdy, slow-speed two-cylinder mechanism which means smoother operation, more all round economy, greater refrigerating capacity and greater value.

The two cylinders assures better balance, less vibration and a longer life to the machine. The freezer machine is made in one-piece and is rust-proof.

Trays are made of stainless aluminum with rubber grids, and automatic releases enable the user to remove the trays and cubes no matter how tightly frozen in but a few seconds.

STORES MEAT

Servel Electrolux Has Special Cold Storage Tray.

The modern homemaker who is faced with the problem of keeping meats fresh and ready for the oven during the hot summer months can safely file her meat cuts for future use if she owns a 1938 Servel Electrolux refrigerator.

A new feature of the latest model gas Electrolux is a cold storage tray, located directly beneath the freezing unit, which permits the housewife to store roasts, steaks or pork chops for use when vacation visitors arrive unexpectedly.

Readily adjusted to accommodate large or small meat cuts, the tray helps to create new economy in food-budgeting, Electrolux household experts point out.

The tray also serves conveniently for keeping ice cubes while the freezing trays are being used for frozen desserts or additional ice cubes.

Robert F. Wagner (D), N. Y., Sept. 20. No.

F. Ryan Duffy (D), Wis., Sept. 20. No.

Nominees will be selected in state party conventions, rather than in primary elections, in Indiana, New York and Connecticut.

Nominations already have been won by Senators Lester Hill (D-Ala.), Claude Pepper (D-Fla.), James J. Davis (R-Pa.), Robert R. Reynolds (D-NC) and Guy M. Gillette (D-Iowa).

Sen. Herbert E. Hitchcock (D-SD) was defeated in the primary by former Governor Tom Berry.

While Senator Milton has not yet announced whether or not he will seek the nomination, friends of his say that he has definitely decided not to do so. He was appointed last January to take the seat left vacant by former Sen. A. Harry Moore when the latter became governor of New Jersey.

Many of the senators who say they have not announced opposition at this time will not face the primaries until September. Their adherents say it is likely that rivals will enter the lists against a number of them before the summer is much older.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

NEW YORK—(AP)—When a person eats fat, his body does not immediately consume it, but sends it to a fat depot to be re-conditioned.

This discovery, made at Columbia University by Dr. Rudolf Schoenheimer, is one of the practical results of heavy water. Heavy water contains hydrogen atoms of twice normal weight.

All fat is rich in hydrogen of the ordinary sort. When the heavy hydrogen is mixed with fat foods, some of the heavy stuff replaces the light-weight hydrogen in the fat. When this fat is fed to animals, their bodies use it the same as regular fats.

By mixing just a little of the heavy hydrogen with food fats, Dr. Schoenheimer was able to trace the course of fat through the body. He reported the study to the New York Electrical Society.

After this fat was eaten it went to the places where fat was stored. There it released an equal amount of fat, which was consumed in lieu of the newly eaten fat.

The new fat, while in storage, was rapidly changed by chemical processes. Some of its carbon was removed. Its chemical bonds were altered, and replaced by other bonds. These bonds are the electrical links that bind atoms together. A change in the bonds changes the atomic shape of the fat. After these chemical changes the fat was ready for consumption.

SAVED BY HORN

Dog, Nearly Suffocated In Car, Presses Paw On Button.

MEDFORD, Ore.—(AP)—A cocker spaniel left in a locked automobile nearly suffocated as a blazing sun sent the temperature soaring.

The animal, however, sounded the car's horn with its paw and attracted a rescuer who jimmied the door.

The spaniel collapsed on a lawn but quickly revived.

BURIED IN WEST

D. W. Parkison, Native of City, Stricken in Los Angeles.

Funeral services were held yesterday in Los Angeles for D. Wilbur Parkison, former Mansfield man, who died of a heart attack Friday in the California city.

Mr. Parkison, who was born in Mansfield, would have been 64 years old next Saturday. He left here 38 years ago, going to Denver first and to Los Angeles in 1913. For a number of years he was employed as a make-up man in the mechanical department of the old Mansfield News. He was employed in a similar capacity on a Los Angeles paper before his death. His last visit here was three years ago.

Surviving are his wife; three sisters, Miss Nettie Parkison, Venice, Cal., Mrs. John Grindle, Ashland, and Mrs. W. H. Baker, 780 West Fourth street; two brothers, T. C. and L. E. Parkison of Cleveland; and a number of nieces and nephews.

TAX STILL ON

Sales Levy on Candy to Hold Despite Court Ruling.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The state will continue to collect the sales tax on candy regardless of the ruling of Common Pleas Judge Frank Harvey in Akron that candy is a food and therefore exempt, Tax Commissioner Walter Mitchell has said.

Judge Harvey ruled that the legislature has defined candy as a food and the courts cannot change the definition.

CINCY INSPECTOR FACES JOB IN RIDDING CITY OF SMOKE

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI—Chief Inspector Gordon D. Rowe was in a "smog" today over the smoke that falls on the city—and no wonder:

Something like 10,000 tons of the soot that ruins your white shirt collars descended here last year.

Intermingled with it were 13,500 tons of fly ash, the particles that get in your eye. This totals up to 23,500-odd tons of dirt in the air that Cincinnatians breathe.

This gets in Rowe's hair too, and that's why he was on the smoke-makers' trail tdoay trying to clear the air of what he terms the "little Pittsburgh of Ohio."

Rowe is completing 23 years as the city's smoke-fighter and as he prepares to retire at the age of 70 this summer, he is rounding out a proposed city ordinance giving his successor considerable police authority to regulate homeowners' furnaces.

"The home furnace is the principal offender during the heating season," said Rowe, "and that is usually because the housewife tends the furnace. She doesn't know much about it, and when the man of the house comes home to a cold house at night he just jerks the drafts, letting most of the heat go up the chimney."

The chief inspector figured out that at least one-third of the heat from furnaces escapes along with the soot and ash. His proposed ordinance would require traps in all flues to catch the ash. He said it would save on the coal bills, too.

"Our tests show that as much soot and ash comes out of the rich man's chimney as out of the shack," Rowe stated.

GALION—Mrs. Elza Mumaw of Harding Way East underwent a major operation in the Bucyrus City hospital Monday morning.

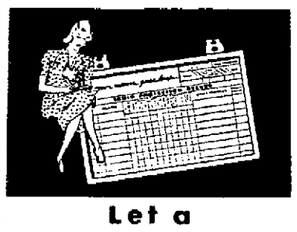

BACK IN PRISON

Wisconsin Fugitive, Captured Here, Returned to Pen.

Jevons Zalinsky, 30-year-old New Yorker, who was captured here several weeks ago after sawing his way out of a Wisconsin jail while waiting sentence on a manslaughter charge for three traffic deaths, today was in the Wisconsin state penitentiary.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said he received word from authorities at Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., that Zalinsky had been taken to the state prison to serve from five to six years on the charge. The Wisconsin authorities said he still faced charges of jail breaking and burglary.

Zalinsky, who was captured by Mansfield police following the attempted safecracking and burglary at the Senior high school May 30, is also charged with breaking and entering here. Arraigned in municipal court June 4, he pleaded guilty and was bound over to the county grand jury under $5,000 bond. Bates then waived custody and turned him over to Wisconsin authorities.

GROWERS MEET

Farmers to Hear of New U. S. Potato Marketing Act.

Commercial potato growers in Richland county will have an opportunity to express their views on the new federal potato marketing act at a meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday at the courthouse, County Agent George B. Ganyard announced today.

Provisions of the new act, which will be outlined to growers by Ganyard, will prohibit the interstate shipment of potatoes of less than the U. S. No. 2 grade and potatoes of less than one and one-half inches in diameter.

County growers will be eligible to elect a delegate to hearings at Ravenna or Wapakoneta next week when growers in the state will offer protests, if any, to the new law which will be placed in effect soon.

The federal law, which will concern growers in 17 states, will have the effect of keeping culled potatoes out of Ohio, Ganyard said.

Castellon Falls, Fascists Drive on Toward Valencia

CAPTURE CITY IN SURPRISE TROOP SHIFT

Insurgents Enter Through Unguarded Port as Foes Arm Southern Front.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER—The red and gold flag of the monarchy flew over the captured city of Castellone la Plana today while nationalist airplanes bombed every city and town as far south as Alicante.

As the main body of Nationalist troops put down the last vestige of Loyalist resistance in and around Castellon, advance guards pressed on southward and reached the neighborhood of Almazora, four miles away and only 37 miles from Generalissimo Francisco Franco's objective, the former provisional capital of Valencia.

Surprise Maneuver.

The Nationalists' account of the victory after they had planted their flag, at Castellon, revealed that troops under Gen. Martin Alonso entered the city from the port of El Grao to which they had maneuvered rapidly while the Loyalists had expected an attack from the south. The southern portions of the city had been heavily defended by tanks and an armored train.

"Finally realizing the hopelessness of their position," an insurgent communique said, "the Loyalists fired and destroyed their gasoline and ammunition dumps, resulting in heavy explosions and dense palls of smoke."

The Loyalists fought desperately in the Miajares river valley outside Castellon to prevent the Nationalist knot from tightening around the provincial capital until straggling government troops had poured through a bottle-neck opening to safety south of the river.

Every available Loyalist cannon was lined up between Castellon and Borriol, and south of the Miajares river, to batter Franco's wedge. But despite a deluge of rain, the Nationalist push continued through muddy fields toward the sea south of the city.

Independent reports indicated that Gen. Jose Miaja succeeded in pulling more than 10,000 troops out of the Nationalist pocket north of Castellon. According to Nationalist reports, Franco had trapped or taken prisoner 10,000 Loyalists and had captured huge quantities of Loyalist equipment.

Campaign Matches 'Burned Him Up,' Sues For $125,000

CHICAGO—(INS)—A packet of paper matches had G. L. Evers of Tallapoosa county, Ala., all burned up today.

Evers was so hot about it that he filed a suit in federal court demanding $125,000 damages from the Advance Match and Printing company of Chicago.

He blamed the firm for losing him the job of tax collector.

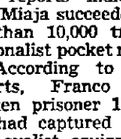

He is a staunch member of the Baptist church, a Democrat, and a prohibitionist.

As campaign advertising, he ordered 2,500 booklets of matches with his picture on the cover. The shipment arrived the day of a big rally and Evers hurried out with the box under his arm.

He had distributed more than 1,000, the petition states, before he stopped to light his own cheroot. He was thunderstruck to find inside the "ribald and obscene cartoon of a small boy" with the printed admonition beneath:

"Drink beer. Don't drink water."

Bitter Warfare Ahead in Auto Union Split

Up and Down THE STREET

It isn't every city that puts its flags out on the birthday anniversary of its mayor, but Mansfield did today. The chief executive is celebrating his birthday anniversary, along with one of the members of his official family, Fred Lingafelter, secretary of the water-garbage department, but both are cagey about the exact date of their birth. Incidentally this is national Flag day, which may have something to do with the display of the national emblem.

Glenn H. Braden, Chevy Chase road, has heard of manna from Heaven and aid from the government, but only recently did he realize the pleasant feeling they bring to the recipient. Braden parked his car near a market the other day and left it unlocked. When he returned the back seat was covered with packages of groceries. He made inquiries and watched the lost-and-found column, but no one reported the loss, so the Braden family consumed the groceries.

Mary Werner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Werner, 24 Euclid avenue, who graduated with first honors at Mansfield high school last week, has a grandfather in Niles, O., who is proud of his granddaughter's scholastic achievements. The grandfather, Dr. W. A. Werner, was even more pleased when the Niles newspaper carried a story about Mary despite the fact that the paper incorrectly stated that she headed a class of only 27. A correction the next day pointed out that there were 287 in the class and not 27.

Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools produced evidence today that his hobby of growing roses has brought something more than the bachache and punctured fingers this season. Miller's office was decorated with several vases of large red, pink and yellow roses—so many, in fact, that the rooms took on the appearance a flower shop.

PRAISE SPINACH

Doctors Say It's Rich in Iron as Well as 'Roughage.'

SAN FRANCISCO—(INS)—All you youngsters who eat your spinach aren't going to have curly hair, but your hair will be healthier and so will you.

Take the word of the August council of the American Medical association, which reported on spinach at the association's annual convention.

Spinach, the council said, "is a wholesome and valuable food, rich source of vitamin A, vitamin C, iron and roughage."

But you have to be a fairly big boy or girl to eat spinach and get good out of it. For infants, the doctors said, spinach isn't so good. It has more iron than small tummies can digest, and the calcium—is not much good for them, either.

PICK M'PHERSON TO HEAD O. S. U.

Trustees Name Him Temporary Successor to Rightmire.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—When Dr. George W. Rightmire retires July 1 as president of Ohio State university, 74-year-old professor emeritus William McPherson will succeed him in a temporary capacity.

University trustees late yesterday selected the widely-known chemistry authority to occupy the presidential chair pending designation of a permanent successor to Dr. Rightmire, who has held the position for 12 years.

A native of Xenia, O., the former chemistry professor joined the Ohio State faculty in 1892.

BULKLEY HURLS WPA CHALLENGE

Blasts at Critics Claiming Workers Are Being Coerced for Votes in Ohio.

WASHINGTON—Sen. Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio today challenged critics in his home state to produce evidence that WPA workers are being intimidated or coerced for votes.

Expressing confidence that WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins will keep the relief agency free of politics, Sen. Bulkley explained that he is supporting the proposed creation of a senate investigating committee partly because it could expose "vicious and unfounded charges."

"If anyone thinks he sees evidence of any attempt by any government official, high or low, to intimidate or coerce voters in Ohio, either on a large or small scale, I hope he will let me know," Senator Bulkley said last night.

"There will be no such coercion in Ohio that I can prevent and I honestly believe I can prevent it all because I feel confident that I can count on some help to be given by the senate under terms of the (investigating) resolution and I know I can count on the help of honest federal officers in the state."

Although counted as a staunch administration supporter, Senator Bulkley lined up against Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley and other White House aides attempting to side-track the investigation rsolution sponsored by 10 Democratic senators, including Bulkley.

SIGNS HARBOR BILL

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—President Roosevelt today signed the $220,987,000 war department civil functions bill carrying funds for river and harbor navigation improvements and flood control construction by the army engineers.

HEALTH BOARD OKAYS TRANSFER, FILLS SCHOOL NURSE TRANSFER

The Mansfield board of health last night approved the transfer of Miss Sibyl Scott, public health nurse, from the state payroll to the city to fill the position left vacant by the recent death of Miss Helen Hayden, school nurse.

Miss Scott has been employed as a nurse in the health department for four years. For two years she was a school nurse paid by the board of education and for the past two years she has been doing public health work in the employ of the state health department.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, who made the recommendation to the board, said the transfer would be effective as of July 1, at which time he will appoint a nurse to replace Miss Scott on the state staff. This appointment does not need the approval of the board of health.

Dr. Rehder's monthly report to the board showed that contagious diseases in Mansfield during May dropped to a new low for the year.

Measles continued to be the most prevalent of the communicable diseases with 171 cases reported to the health department as compared with 538 during April.

The report also showed 13 cases of chicken pox, five cases of mumps, two cases of pneumania and five of scarlet fever.

Deaths during last month dropped to 60, a decrease of 10 from April, while there was two more births in May than the month previous. In May 34 births were reported as compared with 32 during April.

No figures are available on the birth or death rates for the first five months of 1938, Dr. Rehder said, but he predicted that the birth rate this year would show an increase over the 20.6 per thousand recorded last year.

The death rate is expected to show a slight decrease from the 12.1 rate per thousand of 1937.

LEWIS FAILS TO KEEP PEACE IN KEY CIO UNIT

Martin's Suspension of Five Officials Precipitates Heated Controversy.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A fight exceeding in bitterness any family row within organized labor since John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization broke away from the American Federation of Labor, today split the United Automobile Workers, key CIO union, from top timbers to foundation.

Five suspended officers high in UAW leadership, a thirteen-eleven division in the 24-man executive board, broken personal friendships and the bitter memory of charges and countercharges of communism and stool pigeon work made up only part of the wreckage.

Warfare Ahead.

Ahead lay savage warfare for control of the union and its 400,000 members, with mutually ambitious leaders battling for power and each convinced salvation lies only in utter annihilation of the other.

CIO Chief John L. Lewis tried to avoid the explosion but failed. The bitterness was too deep, the ambitions too strong, or the conflict too far advanced to halt.

Now, Lewis has determined that, for a while at least the fight must run its course. He was angered at both sides for permitting the internal rift to crack the leadership wide open for the public to see, but he is not taking sides. He hopes that there may emerge out of it all a leader, old or new, who will be able to knit together the broken fragments and establish peace and unity.

Lewis will not, it was definitely learned, make any immediate effort to place a representative in charge to settle the row between the two warring factions of the union.

UAW President Homer Martin, ex-preacher and avowed foe of communism, brought on the crisis. He exercised "emergency" provisions of the union constitution and suspended four vice-presidents and the secretary-treasurer, a group in which the popular vice-president Richard T. Frankensteen is the generally accepted leader. Martin bluntly accused this group of sabotageing the 20-point "harmony" program for the union adopted at a spring board meeting, and took the position that only ousting of these "irresponsibles" could properly clean house.

Tonight open house will be observed. The entire week is arranged as an observance of the anniversary. The post was organized June 18, 1919.

FAIR ENOUGH!

On Precedent, Hague Is Fairly Safe From Rebuke By U. S. Administration

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—It seems futile to look to the national administration for any rebuke to Frank Hague in Jersey City on principle. A rebuke for practical, political reasons would be another matter and would count for nothing as a defense of civil liberties.

In a similar but more brutal and dangerous situation in Louisiana the administration fought Huey Long, but not on any question of principle. Huey broke, discipline, and therefore attempts were made to punish him through his organization, but there was no solicitude for the liberties and rights of the citizens who lived under his system of persecution.

In fact, since his death his successors have continued to operate the Long system, which inclines strongly to extortion, but are accepted as New Dealers in good standing by reason of the reconciliation which is known in Washington as the Second Louisiana Purchase. But the old Long machine has not changed. It has only made a deal.

On precedent, then, Hague appears to be safe as long as he plays ball. Of course, if some political break should occur, then, naturally, he would be placed in the doghouse.

And, anyway, a rebuke to Hague pretending to be based on principle would be inconsistent with the spirit of the New Deal. If the dispatches of Tom Stokes from Kentucky are true—and you may be sure he can prove up—then it is no more wise for a WPA worker to express opposition to Dear Alben Barkley in Kentucky than for a radical agitator to sound off in Frank Hague's Journal Square.

He might not be run out of town, but if he were given to understand that rash speech would cost him his job, how free would he be to speak his mind?

We have seen also the work of the senate lobby committee "investigating" people who exercised the right to petition congress to reject the reorganization bill. This committee has not "investigated" any of those who lobbied for the bill — only those who lobbied against it, although a Washington dispatch that day said that messengers claiming to have White House authority interviewed senators, making promises and threats.

These were not the precise words, but they give the meaning. The 96 senators themselves, if placed under oath as witnesses, should be able to tell who the messengers were, claiming White House authority, and exactly what they said. The messengers then could be examined, too. But no senators have been called nor any messengers who claimed White House authority. The committee isn't interested in that phase.

So the spirit of the New Deal, in these and other incidents, will be seen to be not unlike that of Mr. Hague around the edges. Not yet as crude and rough, to be sure, but similar in principle and capable of development.

Now that Hague, so close to New York and the news spotlight which glares more brightly here than in Louisiana, has demonstrated the danger of political terrorism, perhaps he will give pause to those New Dealers who thought they were sick and tired of fair play.

It all recalls a popular story of the time when American soldiers and British were quarreling over the question, "Who won the war?" The story went that a crowd gathered around a street fight and a Cockney on the outskirts yelled: "Oo's down now?"

"One of our chaps," said a voice and the Cockney yelled: "Stand back! Fair play! Give the lad a chance."

A moment later he asked: "And Oo's down now?"

"Bloody Yank" was the answer, and the Cockney cried, "boot the bloody—"

Hollywood Speaks---

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—That role in "Comet Over Broadway," turned down by Bette Davis, Miriam Hopkins and Irene Dunne, has been rewritten somewhat for Kay Francis, who is taking it smiling.

Jo Frances James, granddaughter of the famous Jesse, will appear in the projected movie version (starring Tyrone Power) of the Ameri-legend's life. . . . Script will be based largely on new evidence uncovered by Rosalind Shaffer, local newswoman, for a biographical volume. . . . Mrs. Shaffer worked with Jo Frances and the late "Uncle Billy" Judson, one-time member of the James gang, in digging out the material—and the 20th Century outfit bought the factual stuff before the book was completed. . . . As a result Jesse James may be presented in an entirely new light.

Usually the sets where "shorts" are being made afford little in the way of copy. . . . But on "Campus Cinderella" we found Sally Sage, Bette Davis' blond stand-in, acting in front of the camera and served by a stand-in herself. . . . Stand-in to the stand-in actress was Ria Neissen, who's served Bonita Granville similarly. . . . When Bette goes to work, Sally will stand-in some more, but she's on her way to the spotlight herself. . . . And on the same set was Director Noel Smith, ex-husband of Louise Fazenda who is now the wife of Hal Wallis, studio production mogul. . . . And one of Smith's assistants was Don Page, once known on screen as Don Alvarado. . . . And Don's ex-wife Ann is now the wife of Jack L. Warner, who shares the studio production job with Hal Willis!

Harvey Parry, the ace stunt man, tells about his first day in pictures, which taught him a lesson he's never forgotten.

Parry came down from college to be an engineer, got a job instead on "The Queen of Sheba," the Betty Blythe sensation of 1919.

The director wanted a stunt man who would swing by a rope from one side of a hall to land upright on a set of stairs, so steep and narrow that one stunter after another turned down the job.

"All right," said the director, "if you're all yellow I'll do it myself. Get me a costume!"

"Well," says Harvey, "he did it. They had to pick up the pieces and the man is still on crutches. It's a stunt man's cardinal principle never to undertake anything he knows he can't do—and I learned the lesson that first day."

26 SENATORS TO GET ELECTION TESTS IN 1938

Terms of 34 Expire This Year, Five Already Renominated; Runners Listed.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The terms of 34 senators expired this year. Five already have been renominated. One has been defeated in a primary. Two senators in whose states primaries have been held did not seek the renomination. Twenty-six senators have yet to stand for renomination. Here is a table showing who they are, the dates of the primaries or conventions in which the nominations will be made, and whether or not opponents have announced formally against them to date:

Robert F. Wagner (D), N. Y., Sept. 20. No.

F. Ryan Duffy (D), Wis., Sept. 20. No.

Nominees will be selected in state party conventions, rather than in primary elections, in Indiana, New York and Connecticut.

Nominations already have been won by Senators Lester Hill (D-Ala.), Claude Pepper (D-Fla.), James J. Davis (R-Pa.), Robert R. Reynolds (D-NC) and Guy M. Gillette (D-Iowa).

Sen. Herbert E. Hitchcock (D-SD) was defeated in the primary by former Governor Tom Berry.

While Senator Milton has not yet announced whether or not he will seek the nomination, friends of his say that he has definitely decided not to do so. He was appointed last January to take the seat left vacant by former Sen. A. Harry Moore when the latter became governor of New Jersey.

Many of the senators who say they have not announced opposition at this time will not face the primaries until September. Their adherents say it is likely that rivals will enter the lists against a number of them before the summer is much older.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

NEW YORK—(AP)—When a person eats fat, his body does not immediately consume it, but sends it to a fat depot to be re-conditioned.

This discovery, made at Columbia University by Dr. Rudolf Schoenheimer, is one of the practical results of heavy water. Heavy water contains hydrogen atoms of twice normal weight.

All fat is rich in hydrogen of the ordinary sort. When the heavy hydrogen is mixed with fat foods, some of the heavy stuff replaces the light-weight hydrogen in the fat. When this fat is fed to animals, their bodies use it the same as regular fats.

By mixing just a little of the heavy hydrogen with food fats, Dr. Schoenheimer was able to trace the course of fat through the body. He reported the study to the New York Electrical Society.

After this fat was eaten it went to the places where fat was stored. There it released an equal amount of fat, which was consumed in lieu of the newly eaten fat.

The new fat, while in storage, was rapidly changed by chemical processes. Some of its carbon was removed. Its chemical bonds were altered, and replaced by other bonds. These bonds are the electrical links that bind atoms together. A change in the bonds changes the atomic shape of the fat. After these chemical changes the fat was ready for consumption.

SAVED BY HORN

Dog, Nearly Suffocated In Car, Presses Paw On Button.

MEDFORD, Ore.—(AP)—A cocker spaniel left in a locked automobile nearly suffocated as a blazing sun sent the temperature soaring.

The animal, however, sounded the car's horn with its paw and attracted a rescuer who jimmed the door.

The spaniel collapsed on a lawn but quickly revived.

For a number of years he was employed as a make-up man in the mechanical department of the old Mansfield News. He was employed in a similar capacity on a Los Angeles paper before his death. His last visit here was three years ago.

Surviving are his wife; three sisters, Miss Nettie Parkison, Venice, Cal., Mrs. John Grindle, Ashland, and Mrs. W. H. Baker, 780 West Fourth street; two brothers, T. C. and L. E. Parkison of Cleveland; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Sales Levy on Candy to Hold Despite Ruling.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The state will continue to collect the sales tax on candy regardless of the ruling of Common Pleas Judge Frank Harvey in Akron that candy is a food and therefore exempt, Tax Commissioner Walter Mitchell has said.

Judge Harvey ruled that the legislature has defined candy as a food and the courts cannot change the definition.

CINCY INSPECTOR FACES JOB IN RIDDING CITY OF SMOKE

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI—Chief Inspector Gordon D. Rowe was in a "smog" today over the smoke that falls on the city—and no wonder:

Something like 10,000 tons of the soot that ruins your white shirt collars descended here last year.

Intermingled with it were 13,500 tons of fly ash, the particles that get in your eye. This totals up to 23,500-odd tons of dirt in the air that Cincinnatians breathe.

This gets in Rowe's hair too, and that's why he was on the smoke-makers' trail tdoay trying to clear the air of what he terms the "little Pittsburgh of Ohio."

Rowe is completing 23 years as the city's smoke-fighter and as he prepares to retire at the age of 70 this summer, he is rounding out a proposed city ordinance giving his successor considerable police authority to regulate home-owners' furnaces.

"The home furnace is the principal offender during the heating season," said Rowe, "and that is usually because the housewife tends the furnace. She doesn't know much about it, and when the man of the house comes home to a cold house at night he just jerks the drafts, letting most of the heat go up the chimney."

The chief inspector figured out that at least one-third of the heat from furnaces escapes along with the soot and ash. His proposed ordinance would require traps in all flues to catch the ash. He said it would save on the coal bills, too.

"Our tests show that as much soot and ash comes out of the rich man's chimney as out of the shack," Rowe stated.

GALION—Mrs. Elza Mumaw of Harding Way East underwent a major operation in the Bucyrus City hospital Monday morning.

BACK IN PRISON

Wisconsin Fugitive, Captured Here, Returned to Pen.

Jevons Zalinsky, 30-year-old New Yorker, who was captured here several weeks ago after sawing his way out of a Wisconsin jail while waiting sentence on a manslaughter charge for three traffic deaths, today was in the Wisconsin state penitentiary.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said he received word from authorities at Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., that Zalinsky had been taken to the state prison to serve from five to six years on the charge. The Wisconsin authorities said he still faced charges of jail breaking and burglary.

Zalinsky, who was captured by Mansfield police following the attempted safecracking and burglary at the Senior high school May 30, is also charged with breaking and entering here. Arraigned in municipal court June 4, he pleaded guilty and was bound over to the county grand jury under $5,000 bond. Bates then waived custody and turned him over to Wisconsin authorities.

GROWERS MEET

Farmers to Hear of New U. S. Potato Marketing Act.

Commercial potato growers in Richland county will have an opportunity to express their views on the new federal potato marketing act at a meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday at the courthouse, County Agent George B. Ganyard announced today.

Provisions of the new act, which will be outlined to growers by Ganyard, will prohibit the interstate shipment of potatoes of less than the U. S. No. 2 grade and potatoes of less than one and one-half inches in diameter.

County growers will be eligible to elect a delegate to hearings at Ravenna or Wapakoneta next week when growers in the state will offer protests, if any, to the new law which will be placed in effect soon.

The federal law, which will concern growers in 17 states, will have the effect of keeping culled potatoes out of Ohio, Ganyard said.

ADMITS CHARGE

Boy 16, Pleads Guilty to Reckless Driving, Permit Revoked.

Edwin S. Stitt, 16, of 162 West Fifth street, pleaded guilty in juvenile court yesterday to a charge of careless and reckless driving, and Judge C. J. Anderson suspended his operator's permit for 30 days.

Young Stitt was arrested by police late Sunday on Park avenue west at Morningside drive, after they said they had chased him half way across the city. Police testified that the youth passed the cruiser in which they were riding on South Main street at a speed of 50 miles an hour.

Insurgents Enter Through Unguarded Port as Foes Arm Southern Front.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER—The red and gold flag of the monarchy flew over the captured city of Castellone la Plana today while nationalist airplanes bombed every city and town as far south as Alicante.

As the main body of Nationalist troops put down the last vestige of Loyalist resistance in and around Castellon, advance guards pressed on southward and reached the neighborhood of Almazora, four miles away and only 37 miles from Generalissimo Francisco Franco's objective, the former provisional capital of Valencia.

Surprise Maneuver.

The Nationalists' account of the victory after they had planted their flag, at Castellon, revealed that troops under Gen. Martin Alonso entered the city from the port of El Grao to which they had maneuvered rapidly while the Loyalists had expected an attack from the south. The southern portions of the city had been heavily defended by tanks and an armored train.

"Finally realizing the hopelessness of their position," an insurgent communique said, "the Loyalists fired and destroyed their gasoline and ammunition dumps, resulting in heavy explosions and dense palls of smoke."

The Loyalists fought desperately in the Miajares river valley outside Castellon to prevent the Nationalist knot from tightening around the provincial capital until straggling government troops had poured through a bottle-neck opening to safety south of the river.

Every available Loyalist cannon was lined up between Castellon and Borriol, and south of the Miajares river, to batter Franco's wedge. But despite a deluge of rain, the Nationalist push continued through muddy fields toward the sea south of the city.

Independent reports indicated that Gen. Jose Miaja succeeded in pulling more than 10,000 troops out of the Nationalist pocket north of Castellon. According to Nationalist reports, Franco had trapped or taken prisoner 10,000 Loyalists and had captured huge quantities of Loyalist equipment.

Campaign Matches 'Burned Him Up,' Sues For $125,000

CHICAGO—(INS)—A packet of paper matches had G. L. Evers of Tallapoosa county, Ala., all burned up today.

Evers was so hot about it that he filed a suit in federal court demanding $125,000 damages from the Advance Match and Printing company of Chicago.

He blamed the firm for losing him the job of tax collector.

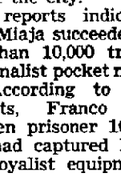

He is a staunch member of the Baptist church, a Democrat, and a prohibitionist.

As campaign advertising, he ordered 2,500 booklets of matches with his picture on the cover. The shipment arrived the day of a big rally and Evers hurried out with the box under his arm.

He had distributed more than 1,000, the petition states, before he stopped to light his own cheroot. He was thunderstruck to find inside the "ribald and obscene cartoon of a small boy" with the printed admonition beneath:

"Drink beer. Don't drink water."

Bitter Warfare Ahead in Auto Union Split

Up and Down THE STREET

It isn't every city that puts its flags out on the birthday anniversary of its mayor, but Mansfield did today. The chief executive is celebrating his birthday anniversary, along with one of the members of his official family, Fred Lingafelter, secretary of the water-garbage department, but both are cagey about the exact date of their birth. Incidentally this is national Flag day, which may have something to do with the display of the national emblem.

Glenn H. Braden, Chevy Chase road, has heard of manna from Heaven and aid from the government, but only recently did he realize the pleasant feeling they bring to the recipient. Braden parked his car near a market the other day and left it unlocked. When he returned the back seat was covered with packages of groceries. He made inquiries and watched the lost-and-found column, but no one reported the loss, so the Braden family consumed the groceries.

Mary Werner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Werner, 24 Euclid avenue, who graduated with first honors at Mansfield high school last week, has a grandfather in Niles, O., who is proud of his granddaughter's scholastic achievements. The grandfather, Dr. W. A. Werner, was even more pleased when the Niles newspaper carried a story about Mary despite the fact that the paper incorrectly stated that she headed a class of only 27. A correction the next day pointed out that there were 287 in the class and not 27.

Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools produced evidence today that his hobby of growing roses has brought something more than the bachache and punctured fingers this season. Miller's office was decorated with several vases of large red, pink and yellow roses—so many, in fact, that the rooms took on the appearance a flower shop.

PRAISE SPINACH

Doctors Say It's Rich in Iron as Well as 'Roughage.'

SAN FRANCISCO—(INS)—All you youngsters who eat your spinach aren't going to have curly hair, but your hair will be healthier and so will you.

Take the word of the August council of the American Medical association, which reported on spinach at the association's annual convention.

Spinach, the council said, "is a wholesome and valuable food, rich source of vitamin A, vitamin C, iron and roughage."

But you have to be a fairly big boy or girl to eat spinach and get good out of it. For infants, the doctors said, spinach isn't so good. It has more iron than small tummies can digest, and the calcium—is not much good for them, either.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—When Dr. George W. Rightmire retires July 1 as president of Ohio State university, 74-year-old professor emeritus William McPherson will succeed him in a temporary capacity.

University trustees late yesterday selected the widely-known chemistry authority to occupy the presidential chair pending designation of a permanent successor to Dr. Rightmire, who has held the position for 12 years.

A native of Xenia, O., the former chemistry professor joined the Ohio State faculty in 1892.

BULKLEY HURLS WPA CHALLENGE

Blasts at Critics Claiming Workers Are Being Coerced for Votes in Ohio.

WASHINGTON—Sen. Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio today challenged critics in his home state to produce evidence that WPA workers are being intimidated or coerced for votes.

Expressing confidence that WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins will keep the relief agency free of politics, Sen. Bulkley explained that he is supporting the proposed creation of a senate investigating committee partly because it could expose "vicious and unfounded charges."

"If anyone thinks he sees evidence of any attempt by any government official, high or low, to intimidate or coerce voters in Ohio, either on a large or small scale, I hope he will let me know," Senator Bulkley said last night.

"There will be no such coercion in Ohio that I can prevent and I honestly believe I can prevent it all because I feel confident that I can count on some help to be given by the senate under terms of the (investigatng) resolution and I know I can count on the help of honest federal officers in the state."

Although counted as a staunch administration supporter, Senator Bulkley lined up against Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley and other White House aides attempting to side-track the investigation rsolution sponsored by 10 Democratic senators, including Bulkley.

HEALTH BOARD OKAYS TRANSFER, FILLS SCHOOL NURSE TRANSFER

The Mansfield board of health last night approved the transfer of Miss Sibyl Scott, public health nurse, from the state payroll to the city to fill the position left vacant by the recent death of Miss Helen Hayden, school nurse.

Miss Scott has been employed as a nurse in the health department for four years. For two years she was a school nurse paid by the board of education and for the past two years she has been doing public health work in the employ of the state health department.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, who made the recommendation to the board, said the transfer would be effective as of July 1, at which time he will appoint a nurse to replace Miss Scott on the state staff. This appointment does not need the approval of the board of health.

Dr. Rehder's monthly report to the board showed that contagious diseases in Mansfield during May dropped to a new low for the year.

Measles continued to be the most prevalent of the communicable diseases with 171 cases reported to the health department as compared with 538 during April.

The report also showed 13 cases of chicken pox, five cases of mumps, two cases of pneumania and five of scarlet fever.

Deaths during last month dropped to 60, a decrease of 10 from April, while there was two more births in May than the month previous. In May 34 births were reported as compared with 32 during April.

No figures are available on the birth or death rates for the first five months of 1938, Dr. Rehder said, but he predicted that the birth rate this year would show an increase over the 20.6 per thousand recorded last year.

The death rate is expected to show a slight decrease from the 12.1 rate per thousand of 1937.

LEWIS FAILS TO KEEP PEACE IN KEY CIO UNIT

Martin's Suspension of Five Officials Precipitates Heated Controversy.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A fight exceeding in bitterness any family row within organized labor since John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization broke away from the American Federation of Labor, today split the United Automobile Workers, key CIO union, from top timbers to foundation.

Five suspended officers high in UAW leadership, a thirteen-eleven division in the 24-man executive board, broken personal friendships and the bitter memory of charges and countercharges of communism and stool pigeon work made up only part of the wreckage.

Warfare Ahead.

Ahead lay savage warfare for control of the union and its 400,000 members, with mutually ambitious leaders battling for power and each convinced salvation lies only in utter annihilation of the other.

CIO Chief John L. Lewis tried to avoid the explosion but failed. The bitterness was too deep, the ambitions too strong, or the conflict too far advanced to halt.

New, Lewis has determined that, for a while at least the fight must run its course. He was angered at both sides for permitting the internal rift to crack the leadership wide open for the public to see, but he is not taking sides. He hopes that there may emerge out of it all a leader, old or new, who will be able to knit together the broken fragments and establish peace and unity.

Lewis will not, it was definitely learned, make any immediate effort to place a representative in charge to settle the row between the two warring factions of the union.

UAW President Homer Martin, ex-preacher and avowed foe of communism, brought on the crisis. He exercised "emergency" provisions of the union constitution and suspended four vice-presidents and the secretary-treasurer, a group in which the popular vice-president Richard T. Frankensteen is the generally accepted leader. Martin bluntly accused this group of sabotageing the 20-point "harmony" program for the union adopted at a spring board meeting, and took the position that only ousting of these "irresponsibles" could properly clean house.

FAIR ENOUGH!

On Precedent, Hague Is Fairly Safe From Rebuke By U. S. Administration

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—It seems futile to look to the national administration for any rebuke to Frank Hague in Jersey City on principle. A rebuke for practical, political reasons would be another matter and would count for nothing as a defense of civil liberties.

In a similar but more brutal and dangerous situation in Louisiana the administration fought Huey Long, but not on any question of principle. Huey broke, discipline, and therefore attempts were made to punish him through his organization, but there was no solicitude for the liberties and rights of the citizens who lived under his system of persecution.

In fact, since his death his successors have continued to operate the Long system, which inclines strongly to extortion, but are accepted as New Dealers in good standing by reason of the reconciliation which is known in Washington as the Second Louisiana Purchase. But the old Long machine has not changed. It has only made a deal.

On precedent, then, Hague appears to be safe as long as he plays ball. Of course, if some political break should occur, then, naturally, he would be placed in the doghouse.

And, anyway, a rebuke to Hague pretending to be based on principle would be inconsistent with the spirit of the New Deal. If the dispatches of Tom Stokes from Kentucky are true—and you may be sure he can prove up—then it is no more wise for a WPA worker to express opposition to Dear Alben Barkley in Kentucky than for a radical agitator to sound off in Frank Hague's Journal Square.

He might not be run out of town, but if he were given to understand that rash speech would cost him his job, how free would he be to speak his mind?

We have seen also the work of the senate lobby committee "investigating" people who exercised the right to petition congress to reject the reorganization bill. This committee has not "investigated" any of those who lobbied for the bill — only those who lobbied against it, although a Washington dispatch that day said that messengers claiming to have White House authority interviewed senators, making promises and threats.

These were not the precise words, but they give the meaning. The 96 senators themselves, if placed under oath as witnesses, should be able to tell who the messengers were, claiming White House authority, and exactly what they said. The messengers then could be examined, too. But no senators have been called nor any messengers who claimed White House authority. The committee isn't interested in that phase.

So the spirit of the New Deal, in these and other incidents, will be seen to be not unlike that of Mr. Hague around the edges. Not yet as crude and rough, to be sure, but similar in principle and capable of development.

Now that Hague, so close to New York and the news spotlight which glares more brightly here than in Louisiana, has demonstrated the danger of political terrorism, perhaps he will give pause to those New Dealers who thought they were sick and tired of fair play.

It all recalls a popular story of the time when American soldiers and British were quarreling over the question, "Who won the war?" The story went that a crowd gathered around a street fight and a Cockney on the outskirts yelled: "Oo's down now?"

"One of our chaps," said a voice and the Cockney yelled: "Stand back! Fair play! Give the lad a chance."

A moment later he asked: "And Oo's down now?"

"Bloody Yank" was the answer, and the Cockney cried, "boot the bloody—"

Hollywood Speaks---

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—That role in "Comet Over Broadway," turned down by Bette Davis, Miriam Hopkins and Irene Dunne, has been rewritten somewhat for Kay Francis, who is taking it smiling.

Jo Frances James, granddaughter of the famous Jesse, will appear in the projected movie version (starring Tyrone Power) of the Ameri- legend's life. . . . Script will be based largely on new evidence uncovered by Rosalind Shaffer, local newswoman, for a biographical volume. . . . Mrs. Shaffer worked with Jo Frances and the late "Uncle Billy" Judson, one-time member of the James gang, in digging out the material—and the 20th Century outfit bought the factual stuff before the book was completed. . . . As a result Jesse James may be presented in an entirely new light.

Usually the sets where "shorts" are being made afford little in the way of copy. . . . But on "Campus Cinderella" we found Sally Sage, Bette Davis' blond stand-in, acting in front of the camera and served by a stand-in herself. . . . Stand-in to the stand-in actress was Ria Neissen, who's served Bonita Granville similarly. . . . When Bette goes to work, Sally will stand-in some more, but she's on her way to the spotlight herself. . . . And on the same set was Director Noel Smith, ex-husband of Louise Fazenda who is now the wife of Hal Wallis, studio production mogul. . . . And one of Smith's assistants was Don Page, once known on screen as Don Alvarado. . . . And Don's ex-wife Ann is now the wife of Jack L. Warner, who shares the studio production job with Hal Willis!

Harvey Parry, the ace stunt man, tells about his first day in pictures, which taught him a lesson he's never forgotten.

Parry came down from college to be an engineer, got a job instead on "The Queen of Sheba," the Betty Blythe sensation of 1919.

The director wanted a stunt man who would swing by a rope from one side of a hall to land upright on a set of stairs, so steep and narrow that one stunter after another turned down the job

"All right," said the director, "if you're all yellow I'll do it myself. Get me a costume!"

"Well," says Harvey, "he did it. They had to pick up the pieces and the man is still on crutches. It's a stunt man's cardinal principle never to undertake anything he knows he can't do—and I learned the lesson that first day."

Bad Behavior Doesn't Pay Miss Lee Says

By VIRGINIA LEE

There is always a time in every young man's life—if he is a decent chap with high standards—when he feels he is a social failure. Then he growls: "I'd better take to drinking, gambling and running around. Folk think I'm a sissy because I don't get drunk once in awhile and go out with loose women!"

And the same thing is true of girls. They see other girls who do all the things girls are not supposed to do—drink and smoke and stay out late, allow petting, etc—getting all the boys' attention, and they think goodness does not pay, and they had better "go the limit" too.

Don't do it, boys and girls. I know it sounds flippant and trite to say that "virtue is its own reward." You think the rewards are practically nil: But it is not so. It is certainly "somep'n" to be able to look people straight in the face without apology.

Even if it seems you do not attract other young people—that the girls fall for the flashy type of gents "with a line"; and the boys give all their attention to the girls who are labeled "fast." This type of attention does not mean everything. In fact, not much of anything. Friendship and real love are not based on that sort of running about together. Neither are happy marriages. They are built on real friendships between fine and congenial young people who have high ideals, and try to attain them. Heaven help our homes and the world if it is not so.

So, LONESOME GIRLS, don't be discouraged. Don't be bold and cheap. Keep your ideals and live up to them as earnestly as you can. Let the tawdy type of girls have their day. It seldom lasts long. Wait for boys who want your type of girl for pals. There are plenty of them. And your time will come.

Routine For House Work Gives Leisure

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

Nowadays it is "compulsory" for all our wives and mothers to look well groomed, neat and attractive. It isn't just a question of keeping up with the Joneses. It has really become a part of our standard of living.

That doesn't mean that you haven't got just as much housework to do or that you don't have to mind the children, cook and sew. It simply means that you've got another duty also, and that duty is to yourself. You probably are saying, "That's all very well, but where will I get the time?"

No doubt you have murmured that old axiom about "woman's work is never done" many times, and no matter how devoted you are to your husband and children, there must have been a day when you couldn't help feeling just the least little bit put upon. But remember that other duty—the one you owe yourself, and take some time off to improve yourself. The minute you make up your mind that you aren't wasting valuable time, you'll get a lift in the old spirit and you'll forget all about being put upon. Those extra few minutes spent on beauty will make you happy about yourself and will win compliments from the whole family. A cheerful mother will make a happy family, so it is really an investment in happiness.

Now the question is where are you going to get the time? A housekeeping expert that we know says that any modern woman can get all her work done in 67 hours a week. The trick is to make yourself keep hours. Do just as your husband does about his office and the kids do about school. If you go about your job as systematically as your husband does you'll find that you really do have plenty of extra time for yourself.

Here is the routine that she worked out, and she claims that during your working hours you will have extra time on your schedule for little added jobs, like knitting, making a favorite dessert or doing a bit of gardening.

Week's Routine.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday you rise at seven o'clock and work until 2 p. m. From 2 to 5' you are free. From 5 to 8 p. m. you prepare, serve and clear away the evening meal. It is best to decide on certain days for special jobs. For instance, a good heavy cleaning on Monday and Friday. On Tuesday mending and sewing daughter's dresses and son's shirts. Wednesday clean the silver. Thursday can be wash day for your personal things as well as those of little sister and sonny. On Sunday you rise at 8 o'clock and work until 2 p. m. with an hour's allowance for church. Most of your work on Sunday will be cooking the Sunday dinner, so your work for that morning will really be about five hours. Then you spend two hours in preparing and clearing away supper and making advance preparations for Monday's breakfast.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

There are probably women so adamant in their wrath that they can resist blandishment such as Dicky can use in so masterly a fashion when he is penitent.

But they are made of sterner stuff than I. Long ago I realized that when Dicky really sets himself to "coax the birds off the bushes," in an exhibition of royal atonement for some "sin of commission or omission," I am as wax in his hands. A moment or two of half-hearted coldness to his sudden change of mood is all that I can manage.

So it was but the fraction of a second that I waited after his plea for forgiveness for his flare-up of temper over what I had told Katherine. Then I leaned back against his encircling arms, and, lifting my hand, pressed my fingers against his still volubly pleading lips.

"Hush! Dearest," I said softly. "It's all over. I'm not angry any more, and you're forgiven, if you wish it, and all the rest of it. But we haven't very much time for talk. The children will not be content long without you, as you very well know."

"They don't need to be." He punctuated the words with a kiss. "I'm all ears. Tell me quickly what you want. First I'll tell you that I agree with Katherine absolutely — did all the time underneath, only I had to throw my weight around a bit before admitting it. This is a case for a specialist. Go ahead from there."

I quailed again inwardly at retailing what Katherine had said, but steeled myself to go on.

"Hank is too big a boy to be accompained by any woman on such an errand," I said in parrot-like repetition of Katherine's words. "She can arrange all the preliminaries, but—"

I hesitated, and he gave me a sardonic smile.

"That means I'm elected, I gather," he said.

"Well! there isn't any other man," I said judicially, "unless it were Harry Underwood, and he isn't here."

He gave a distinct start.

"I never thought of old Harry," he said. "He could do the trick, of course. Can we get hold of him?"

The look of amazement I gave him was an involuntary thing, and I could not catch it back or conceal it, though I tried valiantly to do both. It did not seem possible that he would delegate a delicate mission involving his dead sister's son to even so old and tried a friend as Harry Underwood.

Madge Doubtful.

"I do not see how we can in time," I said, trying to make my voice casually impersonal. "If it be humanly possible, Hank ought to go back to school at the same time Bill does. That means he ought to go to New York in the next day or two."

It was the look on my face instead of my words that he answered, I am sure, and I quaked again as I saw his forehead furrow into a frown.

"What's all the astonishment for?" he asked with the hint of a snarl in his voice. "Why shouldn't Harry know about this thing, just the same as Katherine?"

"He should," I agreed promptly, "and I wasn't aware that I looked astonished. I certainly am not in the least amazed."

"Well! you did," he asserted glumly, then added with a complete change of front: "But I can't blame you. It surely must seem amazing to you, my dodging this thing. D'ye think I want to dodge it?" he demanded suddenly, and I was conscious that there was real suffering in his voice.

"I know you don't," I said soothingly, "just as I know there must be some very good reason for your delegating the job to anybody else. But—do you mean that it is really impossible for you to take Hank to the specialist?"

"I don't mean that at all," he answered surprisingly. "I mean simply that my time isn't my own just now, any more than a physician's is. I'm likely to be called away at any minute, and unless there was somebody to pinch hit for me, Hank would be left high and dry in the big city."

My Neighbor Says:

After washing woolen blankets rinse through several waters. Do not wring them out, but hang up dripping.

Coral beads may be cleaned by dissolving a teaspoon of borax in a pint of warm water. Dip the coral and when clean, put through tepid water.

Before removing a soiled tablecloth and napkins look for fruit stains and put camphor on them. Then wash the same as any white goods.

The amateur who finds an empty space in his flower garden and wants to fill it in a hurry will do well to plant seeds of the annual lupin, which will often produce flowers within six weeks, if the situation is a sunny one. The flowers are somewhat like snapdragons and come in good shades of yellow, pink and blue, as well as in white. The plants are low growing and naturally branching in habit, but if the side shoots are cut off they will grow two feet high and bear very large spikes of handsome flowers.

Make Letters Sparkle; Write as You'd Talk.

Be Admired for Good Writing

How to cultivate that knack of warm, friendly correspondence? Get the person you're writing to into your letter. Scratch out "I'd have written sooner but I've been so busy. I've been swimming every day. The tennis courts are fine..."

Say instead, "Such fun, Bill. I've hardly been able to catch my breath. How I wish you could join me for an early morning dip in the lake. And help me give some of the tennis stars 'around here a good trouncing . . ."

Dust off your vocabulary. Don't be afraid to talk about "dancing waves," "glow and crackle of bonfires on the beach," "luscious fragrance of fresh-cut clover."

Pay attention to the little things that make a letter pleasing—crisp, clean note paper, wide margins, correct spelling.

Good letter-writing is easy to learn with our practical 32-page booklet as guide. Gives salutations, closings. Sample letters for all occasions, social and business.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A BIG ADVANTAGE

ONE OF THE greatest advantages of a four-four trump division between declarer and dummy is its perfect adaptability for a cross-ruff. Using only one trump at a time, instead of two as when trumps are lead, you manage to have a winning trump in a much larger number of tricks, perhaps twice or nearly twice as many as the length of the suit.

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable).

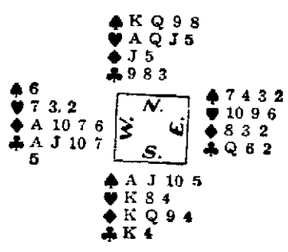

The bidding on this deal started with West's call of 1-Club. North put in a bid of 1-Diamond, South 1-Heart, West 2-Clubs, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-No Trumps, North 3-Spades and South 4-Spades.

East opened the club 8 against this contract. West won with the K and after cashing a second club trick, led a third on which North played the spade 9 and East overruffed with the Q. Having lost three tricks, it was now necessary for declarer to plan the hand so that no additional trick would be lost.

With perfect timing he accomplished this. East's return, after winning the third trick, was a heart, which was won with South's A. The diamond A was cashed and a diamond ruffed. The hearts K and Q were now taken and the heart 9 ruffed with the spade 5. Another diamond ruff followed and the club J trumped with the spade K. The diamond 10 was ruffed with the spade 8 and the spade A won the final trick, on which East's 10 fell.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, June 15.

A day of great opportunity and adventure is presaged from the dominant planetary directions. There are indications of most unexpected, possibly peculiar or intriguing developments that may have an important effect on all the departments of life. Upheaval, disruption, adventure and romance may descend with startling force, and may prove beneficial if sobriety, diligence, restraint and common sense is exercised rather than hysteria and spectacular behavior.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of the most surprising and sudden developments, with radical change, romance, complete upheaval and exciting adventures in both business and private affiliations. These should be met with sound judgment, acumen and lack of pyrotechnics. It is possible that gifts, inheritance or a death may figure in such spectacular events. Keep self-possessed.

A child born on this day may have a rather contradictory nature. It may be subtle and serious and, at the same time, given to adventure, romance, travel, the strange, quixotic and unorthodox, its talents may be many.

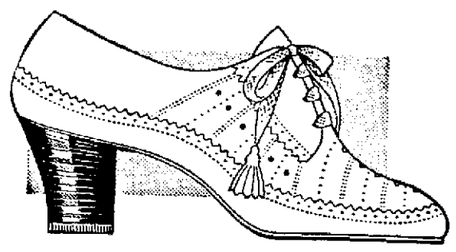

When making a meringue have the egg whites very cold and beat them until stiff enough to stand alone. If baked in too hot an oven meringue will be tough and shrink when set away to cool.
